Bill proposes up to 4 nominees per bank a/c

DIPAK MONDAL @ New Delhi

MINISTER of State for Finance Pankaj Chaudhary on Friday introduced the Banking Laws (Amendment) Bill, 2024 in the Lok Sabha, proposing up to four nominees for each bank account.

The bill has enabling provisions to transfer unclaimed dividends, shares, and interest or redemption of bonds to the Investor Education and Protection Fund, allowing individuals to claim transfers or refunds from the fund, thus safeguarding investors' interests.

The bill proposes to extend the tenure of directors in cooperative banks from 8-10 years. It also proposes to allow a director of a Central cooperative bank to serve on a State cooperative bank board. Congress MP Manish Tewari said the power to legislate cooperatives vests with state governments.

Govt ducks the SC/ST creamy layer bullet

PREETHA NAIR @ New Delhi

IN a significant move, the Centre on Friday said it will not implement the Supreme Court's proposal of carving out the creamy layer within the reservations for Scheduled Castes (STs) and Scheduled Tribes (STs). The decision was taken at a Cabinet meeting chaired by Prime Minister Narendra Modi on Friday.

Announcing the decision, Minister of Information and Broadcasting Ashwini Vaishnaw said that there is no concept of creamy layer in SC/ST reservation under Baba Saheb Ambedakar's principles. "The Cabinet has taken a well-thought decision that the provisions for SC/ST reservations will be in tune with Ambedkar's principles," he said.

"In the Cabinet meeting chaired by PM Modi today, we discussed the issue of the SC ruling on sub-categorisation and creamy layer in detail. The Cabinet's well-thought decision is that the NDA government is committed to the constitutional principles laid down by Dr Ambedkar. There is no concept of creamy layer in SC and ST reservation under Ambedkar's principles," he said.

> The Cabinet's well-thought decision is that the NDA government is committed to the constitutional principles laid down by Dr Ambedkar
>
> — Ashwini Vaishnaw

The decision is on expected lines as the Modi government is facing pressure on the creamy layer issue from allies and from within the party. NDA ally LJP's chief Chirag Paswan has already announced that he will file a review petition against the Supreme Court ruling.

The thinking within the government is that the implementation of the creamy layer will further alienate the backward community from the BJP. In the 2024 general elections, the BJP suffered major losses especially in Uttar Pradesh after the backward community and Dalits voted against it.

Sisodia finally gets bail

SUCHITRA KALYAN MOHANTY @ New Delhi

SEVENTEEN months after he was arrested for alleged money laundering linked to the Delhi excise policy scam, former deputy chief minister Manish Sisodia on Friday walked out of Tihar jail after the Supreme Court granted him bail. "It appears that the trial courts and the high courts attempt to play safe in matters of grant of bail. The principle that bail is a rule and refusal is an exception is, at times, followed in breach," a two-judge bench led by Justice B R Gavai said.

While rejecting the trial court's position that Sisodia was responsible for delaying the process, the bench said, bail can't be rejected as a punishment. As for the trial court's claim that he kept various documents, the bench said it was not supported by record. Just 13 and 14 applications were filed by him in the CBI and ED matters respectively, it said.

CM: I am clean, won't fall for Oppn tactics

K SHIVA KUMAR @ Mysuru

CHIEF Minister Siddaramaiah on Friday claimed that he is "spotlessly clean" and accused opposition parties of targeting him just because he is a mass leader from a backward community.

Participating in Congress' Janandolana rally here, he said that he will remain honest in public life forever and asked people to stand by him in his hour of crisis. BJP and JDS tried and failed to fix him in the ST corporation scam and now they are trying to corner him and his family in the MUDA scam, he alleged.

Referring to the Quit India Movement against the British, Siddaramaiah said it's time to launch a similar movement against the communal, casteist and authoritarian forces which hate leaders from backward communities holding top posts. They targeted the then chief ministers D Devaraj Urs, S Bangarappa, M Veera Moily and N Dharam Singh, the CM added. CONTINUED ON: P4

SC stays hijab ban imposed by Mumbai college

SUCHITRA KALYAN MOHANTY @ New Delhi

THE Supreme Court on Friday partly stayed a circular issued by a Mumbai college that prohibited female students from wearing 'hijab, burqa, cap, and naqab' on the campus, saying girl students have the freedom to choose what to wear. Terming the restrictions imposed by the college authorities as unwarranted, a bench of Justices Sanjiv Khanna and Sanjay Kumar asked the Chembur Trombay Education Society, which runs the N G Acharya and D K Marathe College, whether it would ban 'bindi' and 'tilak' also on the campus.

Justice Kumar asked senior advocate Madhavi Divan, appearing for the society, how was the college empowering the girl students by issuing such a circular. "Girl students must have the freedom of choice in what they wear, and the college can't impose bans," the bench said.

The SC, however, clarified that burqas would not be permitted inside the classrooms and that no religious activities should occur on campus. The SC also warned that its interim order should not be misused, adding that the educational society has the right to appeal in case of any perceived misuse.

During the hearing, the bench was told the college's decision was aimed at preventing students from revealing their religion. To this, the court said: "The person's religious identity can be revealed by his/her name and not by the clothes he/she wears."

Divan said the circular was not limited to 'hijab, burqa or naqab' but extended to ripped jeans and other such attire.

Now stricter guidelines for women's PGs

FUND CRUNCH HITS STATE GOVT RECRUITMENT DRIVE

ASHWINI M SRIPAD @ Bengaluru

FINANCIAL constraints seem to be slowing down the state government's move to fill a large number of vacant posts in various departments.

In the run-up to the 2023 Assembly elections in the state, the Congress party promised to fill all vacant posts without any delay if it comes to power.

To implement the Seventh Pay Commission's recommendations, the government needs Rs 20,000 crore annually. It had promised to implement the commission's recommendations from this month. This is likely to make matters worse for the government, which has to fund its ambitious guarantee schemes and also many development projects.

Senior officers in the government admitted that the recruitment drive will be affected. However, proposals submitted by various departments have been approved depending on their requirement, they said.

Of the 7.7 lakh sanctioned posts, 72 departments have 5.2 lakh employees. In all, 2.50 lakh posts are vacant in various departments, including Agriculture, Home, Urban Development, Health, Tourism, Education, Food and Civil Supplies, Power, Water Resources, Excise, Medical Education, Rural Development and Panchayat Raj. Employees have been recruited to some vacant posts on a contract basis. P4

Palike without Council for four years

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@BENGALURU

THE Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike will complete four years next month, without an elected body. Now with the government proposing a three-tier system — ward committees, multiple corporations and a Greater Bengaluru authority — besides a full five-year term for the mayor, opposition parties claim that all these developments will eventually delay holding municipal polls for at least one year.

Lashing out at the government, alleging that it is tactfully delaying BBMP polls, Dasarahalli MLA S Muniraju said it is the doing of Deputy Chief Minister and Bengaluru Development Minister DK Shivakumar for his 'Brand Bengaluru', but it will end as 'Bad Bengaluru'.

"The government is scared to hold elections. Bengaluru has 17 BJP MLAs, and in the recent Lok Sabha elections, BJP swept the Bengaluru segments. The government increased Rs 5 on milk per litre since it came it power, Cauvery water is still not supplied to outer city areas. They increased guidance value on land, the slab on power supply also increased, and the state increased tax on petrol... all this will end in their (Congress) defeat. Hence, they don't want to hold BBMP elections. The new exercise is just to buy time, and they will come back to the old system," said Muniraju.

He added that funds for development of wards have also been cut. Earlier, Rs 3 crore was given to core area wards and Rs 4 crore for wards in outer areas, and this has been reduced, he alleged.

Former minister and MLA of Mahalakshmi Layout constituency K Gopalaiah said the new system proposed by the DCM will not work. There are classic examples like the Delhi and Mumbai model and they too have now adopted the old system of running a municipality. "After a year, the government may come back to the old system of municipality rules," he added.

Gadkari promises to release ₹1,769cr relief in 45 days

Farmers approached me with their concerns over delay in payment: MP

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

BENGALURU Rural MP Dr CN Manjunath stated that Union Minister of Road Transport and Highways Nitin Gadkari assured him that over Rs 1,700 crore will be released for compensation towards land acquired for the Satellite Town Ring Road (STRR) project in 45 days.

Manjunath, who met Gadkari in New Delhi, said that Rs 334.73 crore has been released by the Centre so far and he requested the minister to release the remaining Rs 1,769.71 crore soon. "The minister responded positively, saying the funds will be disbursed within the next 45 days," Dr Manjunath added.

"The project primarily covers Magadi, Ramanagara, Anekal, Kanakapura and Harohalli in Bengaluru Rural. But despite land acquisition being completed, many beneficiaries have not yet received their compensation. Numerous affected individuals approached me regarding this delay," he said.

The STRR project, an initiative under the National Highways Authority of India (NHAI), is a collaborative effort between the state and central governments. The land acquisition and construction of the project began in 2021. While the state contributes 30 per cent, the Centre bears the remaining 70 per cent cost of the project.

In a letter dated July 28 to Gadkari, Manjunath had stated, "The proposed NH-948A - Satellite Town Ring Road (West side) is being passed from KM 19.76 to KM 134.94 (Magadi, Ramanagara, Kanakapura, Harohalli and Anekal) in Bangalore Rural Lok Sabha Parliamentary constituency. The land acquisition for the project commenced in 2021 December. But only 16% of compensation is disbursed to the land losers / farmers till date and the payment of compensation has stopped from last one year. Therefore, the farmers are demanding payment of land acquisition compensation. Hence, I request your good self to direct the concerned officers to process the payment of compensation at the earliest."

HC junks provision to snatch powers of co-ops

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

IN a major setback to the state government, the High Court of Karnataka has struck down Section 128-A of the Karnataka Cooperative Societies Act 1959, which empowers the registrar of cooperative societies to take away the rights of a cooperative society to recruit, transfer and initiate disciplinary action against its employees.

Terming Section 128-A ultra vires, Justice Anant Ramanath Hegde passed the order while allowing a batch of petitions filed by several cooperative institutions against the provision introduced by the state government on July 27, 2023.

The court said though the state is competent to impose reasonable restrictions on the fundamental right to form a cooperative society, including recruitment, transfer, and disciplinary action, it cannot prohibit or take away the rights of the cooperative society through the provision.

Advocate general K Shashikiran Shetty contended that the registrar framed rules only to regulate the recruitment of CEOs of co-operative societies and not the rest of the employees. Thus, the registrar made applicable Section 128-A, concerning recruitment, transfer and disciplinary action against CEOs. Hence, the restrictions are reasonable and there is no violation of the fundamental right and interference in the autonomous functioning of the cooperative society.

The court, however, did not consider his argument. It said the contention of the state government that money from its welfare schemes to beneficiaries are routed through primary cooperative societies is not a ground to take away the power of the cooperative society to recruit employees. At the end of the day, the cooperative society is nothing but a self-help group, which has protection under Article 19(1)(c). The provision in question runs directly contrary to Article 43-B. Hence, it cannot be said to be proportional, reasonable, or rational, the court said.

PGs to be inspected every six months

The owners should have kitchens in their facilities and must obtain FSSAI Department's permit within three months of obtaining enterprise licence from the palike. Employers/owners should compulsorily have at least one staffer for the safety of inmates 24x7.

According to BBMP health officials, the guidelines have been issued under Section 305 of the Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike Act - 2020 for the safety of inmates of PG facilities. "Under the BBMP Act - 2020, the guidelines should be compulsorily followed to get licence for new PG facilities and also to renew the existing ones. If the owner fails to follow these guidelines, his/her licence will be cancelled and the facility sealed," said a senior BBMP health official.

HC: LIC-like bodies must be model employers

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

STATUTORY bodies like the Life Insurance Corporation of India (LIC), being an instrumentality of the State under Article 12 of the Constitution, have to conduct themselves as a model employer and not as a private entity, acting on their own whims and fancies, said the Karnataka High Court, rejecting an appeal filed by LIC against a single-judge's order directing it to appoint the petitioner.

The division bench of Justices Krishna S Dixit and Vijaykumar A Patil rejected the LIC's appeal against the single judge's order of February 14, 2024 to appoint the petitioner, Sourabh from Dharwad.

The high court observed that when vacancies continue indefinitely, it would not only affect the efficacy of public administration but render many qualified and eligible job aspirants to cross the age limit.

It needs no research to know that there has been heartburn among the younger generation, aspiring for public employment, that the recruitment process is not taken up periodically, the bench observed, emphasising the need to undertake recruitment periodically.

The single judge quashed the communication by LIC, refusing to appoint Sourabh and directed LIC to appoint him as against permanent vacancies that have arisen between January 14, 2020 and January 14, 2022.

Sourabh was one of the six candidates in the empanelled list, prepared under the economically weaker sections (EWS) category, pursuant to the final list of 34 selected candidates notified on January 14, 2020.

I PU TEXTBOOKS IN SHORT SUPPLY, VENDORS BLAME IT ON DELAY BY KTBS

PURAN CHOUDHARY @ Bengluru

IT has been over two months since the Pre-University (PU) classes began in the state, but textbooks for first PU students are still not available in the market. While local vendors said the supply is not sufficient, the Karnataka Textbooks Society (KTBS) denied any delay in supplies and stressed that they have supplied all textbooks for which the government had placed the indent.

Upon inquiring, multiple vendors in Bengaluru said there has been a delay in supply this year and the textbooks should be available in the next 10 days. Subhas Stores located on Avenue Road told TNIE, "We have the stock for II PUC streams, but for the first year, only a few subjects are available. None of the arts subject textbooks are in stock, while only a few for commerce can be found at the store. However, for science, since the NCERT syllabus is followed, all the subject textbooks are available." This year, the government has adopted the state board syllabus for arts and commerce.

Another vendor, Metro Book House, said the textbooks are expected to be in stock in 10 days. The delay in printing the textbooks this year has been attributed to the model code of conduct due to the Lok Sabha elections. Earlier, the Department of School Education (PU) and KTBS blamed each other for the delay. KTBS issued a work order for printing the textbooks only on June 6 despite PU classes starting on June 1.

Requesting anonymity, a major vendor of textbooks in the city said there is a shortage in supply this year. "We see that the department has sent most of the textbooks to other districts, but Bengaluru has a high demand. Students from districts like Chikkodi, Kolar and Dharwad come and buy books in sets here." The vendor claimed that they have been visiting other districts to buy the textbooks and sell them here.

10TH August : Pluto, the most distant planet, is up to its old tricks. There's a mighty shift of the celestial world which has already been pre-figured in recent global upheavals. Most astrologers are saying that in the future we need to be more realistic and less swayed by wild dreams. We need to focus on what we can do to make the world a better place. And I whole-heartedly agree.

ARIES (Mar 21 - Apr. 20)
Friends and partners are bound to be jumpy this weekend. You may have to settle for a number of broken arrangements and accept that you might have to alter your opinion of close friends or colleagues. There's a fair amount of emotional intensity today, although it diminishes as the hours pass.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 - May 21)
The world as a whole will be short on sound judgment this weekend, so please don't feel singled out if you are the victim of unfair criticism or attacks from friends or relatives. It might be that partners have good reason for their moods, even if they're nothing to do with you!

GEMINI (May 22 - June 21)
It is difficult to think clearly at the moment, or get other people to indulge in anything approaching a rational discussion. You may be wise to steer clear of contentious issues, mainly because partners will almost certainly disagree with you.

CANCER (June 22 - July 23)
Back your instincts and hunches to the hilt as far as your personal plans are concerned, but be very wary about putting anything into action until you are completely confident and absolutely sure of your ground. You'll probably have to wait until partners have made up their minds before you can press ahead.

LEO (July 24 - Aug. 23)
You don't take kindly to being told to wait your turn and hold your horses. However, it will be a brave Leo who takes on any new initiatives. It is time to keep your head down and avoid trouble, waiting until you sense that blind opposition has passed, and reason has returned.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 - Sept. 23)
It's a fine moment for shopping, indeed for any extravagant outburst; you seem to have a shrewd eye for a bargain. However, you must regard all business and investment opportunities as potential disaster areas. Therefore, why don't you give yourself at least a few more days to think things over.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 - Oct. 23)
Everyone, no matter what their individual birth sign, is likely to be involved in events which may be surprising or shocking. Your trump card is your ability to put up with almost any amount of criticism. You may be just a little upset, but really it's all water off a duck's back!

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22)
Your financial stars are growing stronger, and that augurs well for your material security. But, you will need to be a super-enlightened person to avoid some of the emotional flak which is flying around this weekend. It's all down to the Sun-Moon alignment, so it won't last long.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 - Dec. 22)
Going on a spending spree may be a way of avoiding some of the emotional 'u' turns which seem to be putting a spanner in the works of a generally pleasant weekend. Lay your own pressing questions about the future to one side and concentrate on the here and now.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)
Having to put up with personal complaints is bad enough, but coping with professional problems is even worse. That's why you need to set up strong emotional defences. Please try to retain your sense of humour and laugh your way through stressful circumstances.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 - Feb. 19)
Several of your planets are now at loggerheads, all apparently determined to frustrate each other's efforts, so you may feel pulled and pushed in different directions. There seems little you can do to resolve such pressures just yet, but you may be able to live with them quite happily.

PISCES (Feb. 20 - Mar 20)
You like a quiet life and there is no need for you to get involved in unpleasantness, so let other people battle it out. However, you would not be the compassionate person you are, if you did not come forward to help those who are having a hard time of it. By doing good to others, you'll do good to yourself.

KSR kerb murder: Girl's body wrongly identified

S LALITHA @ Bengaluru:

THE mystery surrounding a five-year-old girl's body, lying shrouded in a blanket on the footpath of the parking lot of KSR Bengaluru City Railway Station, has deepened. Initially, it was suspected that the girl was murdered by her vagrant mother and her paramour, and dumped on the footpath; its discovery on July 4 had shocked the public, railway officials and police.

It has now been discovered that the girl is alive and well, and living in Kolar. Police tracked down the couple to Kolar two days ago, and found the girl with them.

Unidentified miscreants were suspected of murdering the girl and leaving the body covered in a blanket late at night. Five special teams formed by the Government Railway Police (GRP) to crack the murder, interviewed multiple eyewitnesses and arrived at the conclusion that her mother, who was a beggar at the station, and her paramour were involved in the murder.

On July 14, police announced a reward for any information on the duo. They named them Raja, alias Manikanta, and Heena, alias Kaali, and released their pictures under the 'Wanted' category, urging the public to report if they spotted them. Sources told TNIE, "Police found the family in Kolar two days ago. The child who was murdered is not the one we suspected, and we don't know the identity of the dead girl."

Deputy Inspector General of Police, GRP, SD Sharanappa confirmed that the child was indeed alive. Asked how they wrongly identified the dead girl, he said, "The girl's relatives identified the body as hers. Both girls look similar."

When this reporter attempted to speak to GRP SP Soumyalatha for details, she refused to respond to calls or messages. The investigation officer, inspector Ravi Shankar, too did not answer multiple calls.

The Divisional Railway Manager said he didn't know the status of the case, and the Railway Protection Force (RPF) could be contacted.

A top RPF cop who had claimed a month ago that it would be easy to crack the case, appeared to be clueless, and the case is back to square one for the GRP.

Engaging mediators new trend: Lokayukta court

YATHIRAJU @Bengaluru

AN innovative technique by public servants of engaging mediators and private individuals for corruption by presenting them as government servants has become a new trend to safeguard themselves from possible risks, the Special Court for Lokayukta said. The observation came while the court was rejecting bail petitions of four accused officials, including Special Tahsildar of Bengaluru South Nagaraj V.

Judge KM Radhakrishna rejected the bail applications of Nagaraj, Shirastedar (Manager) Manjunatha M, First Division Assistant Shilpa G and private person Hemanth Kumar, who had been appointed unofficially in the office of special tahsildar as computer operator at Kandaya Bhavan on Kempegowda Road in Bengaluru.

The Lokayukta police laid a trap and arrested all of them on July 31, while they were accepting Rs 2 lakh bribe through Hemanth Kumar. The complainant was paying them to effect pakka phodi and verification of 2 acres 22 guntas of land, belonging to Nanaraoat Sunkadakatte, which was pending for six months. The court noted that the unofficial engagement of Hemanth Kumar is one instance of a new trend which indeed strengthens the contention of the public prosecutor that the accused Kumar was meant to collect the bribe from the public on behalf of other accused on the pretext of being a computer operator.

"Appointment of this kind by public servants in almost all public offices for the collection of bribes is an open secret. This is the living example to understand the range of corruption in the public offices which is helpless situation facing the common people who approach with hope of getting their work done," the court noted.

Shirastedar: Give Rs 2.5 lakh in all, get the signature done in front of you and send the file to the Assistant Commissioner.

WhatsApp DP lands house maid in trouble

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

A display picture with a stolen necklace and a finger ring has landed a 38-year-old house maid in trouble. The incident occurred in HAL police station limits in March. The accused was one of the four domestic maids at a techie couple's flat at an upscale apartment in Marathahalli. After finding out that the ornaments kept in the almirah were missing, the owner filed a complaint. But police inquiry of all four suspects did not yield any result. However, exactly five months later, the complainant saw the display picture of the maid on her mobile phone, where she along with her husband were seen wearing the ornaments stolen from their house. The ornaments have been recovered and the accused maid has been sent to jail. The maid had also allegedly committed theft in another flat of the same apartment.

The accused, identified as Renuka, is a resident of Munnekolala and hails from Hagaribommanahalli. The police recovered 80 grams of gold ornaments stolen from both the flats worth about Rs Five lakhs. Her husband, Nagaraj, is a cab driver and has no role in the theft.

After the complaint was filed against her, the woman left the job and continued working as a domestic maid at different places. "Renuka's display picture landed her in trouble. After the complaint was filed, she claimed innocence and was a hard nut to crack despite repeated questioning. Moreover, the complainant had kept the gold ornaments in the almirah in November 2023 and checked it after four months. The complainant saw the display picture of the accused, where she was posing with her husband wearing the stolen necklace and ring. Based on the picture, she was picked up from her house on July 30th, when she confessed. All the ornaments have been recovered intact. The accused has been remanded in judicial custody," said an officer investigating the case. Further investigations are on.

WILL STAND LIKE A ROCK GUARDING SIDDU: DKS

Accuses Union Minister Kumaraswamy of conspiring against Prajwal to promote his son's political career

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Mysuru

DELIVERING a fiery speech during the Congress Janandolana rally on Friday, Deputy Chief Minister DK Shivakumar launched a scathing attack on the BJP-JDS alliance, and strongly defended Chief Minister Siddaramaiah against opposition attacks. Addressing the crowd, Shivakumar directly challenged Leader of Opposition R Ashoka and Union Minister HD Kumaraswamy for demanding the resignation of Siddaramaiah. "Ashoka, Kumaraswamy, do you want Siddaramaiah's resignation? I will always stand guard for Siddaramaiah. You won't be able to do anything in this lifetime," Shivakumar said to thunderous cheers from the crowd at Maharaja's College Grounds in Mysuru.

"We fought against the British, and on August 9 (2010), we held a padayatra in Ballari against illegal mining. Today, we are fighting against the BJP's NDA for the survival of our five guarantees and to stop the fight against us. This is not a mere Janandolana, it's a battle for justice against injustice, a fight for truth," he said.

The deputy CM also accused JDS of plotting to topple the state government. "Our government is being targeted. We are fighting for the poor by implementing the guarantees," he said. Shivakumar alleged that Kumaraswamy conspired against his brother HD Revanna's son, Prajwal Revanna, to protect the interests of his son. He doesn't spare anyone, he said.

"Kumaraswamy, you won only 19 seats. Do you want Siddaramaiah's resignation? This rock stands with Siddaramaiah, along with 136 MLAs and 1.80 crore voters. You won't succeed in this lifetime," he said, continuing the verbal spat between them over the last few days. He also accused Kumaraswamy of using political power for the benefit of his family, driving away other leaders, and ensuring that no one else thrives before him. "There are 50 denotification cases against Kumaraswamy," Shivakumar added.

DKS harmed our family: HDK

New Delhi: Union Minister of Heavy Industries and Steel HD Kumaraswamy on Friday hit back at Deputy Chief Minister DK Shivakumar for targeting him during the Congress' Janandolana rally in Mysuru. Speaking to reporters in New Delhi, he asked if the Congress leader has any individuality. "Those who have courage should do politics. People will decide," he said responding to Shivakumar's allegation that Kumaraswamy was responsible for sending his nephew – former Hassan MP Prajwal Revenna -- to jail so that his son can have a better political career. "I am aware what you (Shivakumar) have done harm to our family," he said. Kumaraswamy warned Shivakumar not to speak anything against him, warning that he has documents that can expose the Congress leader. Challenging Congress leaders to provide proof if there were any irregularities during his tenure as CM, he said, "When I was floor leader, I had fought against the BJP too. Why are you (Congress leaders) are making it look that this is something new now?" ENS

Cong puts up show of unity, tears into BJP-JDS for padayatra against CM

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Mysuru

CONGRESS put up a show of unity on Friday at the valedictory of the Congress Janandolana Yatre, launched as a counter to the ongoing Mysuru Chalo Padayatra by the BJP-JDS coalition, at Maharaja's College Grounds. Congress leaders tore into the opposition combine for holding the padayatra from Bengaluru to Mysuru, demanding the resignation of CM Siddaramaiah in the MUDA site allotment case.

Food and Civil Supplies Minister KS Muniyappa said BJP and JDS failed to raise their voice for the Mekedatu project or welfare programmes for the people of North Karnataka, but are wasting time holding the march over a pointless issue.

"Opposition parties have dug up a mountain, but failed to find even a mouse. Opposition leaders are unnecessarily and deliberately politicising the issue, unable to tolerate a Siddaramaiah, who comes from the lower rungs of society, becoming chief minister for the second time. The entire Congress is behind Siddaramaiah, who has not indulged in any irregularity in his 40 years of political career," he said.

MLC BK Hariprasad lashed out at opposition leaders for making serious allegations against Congress leaders and maligning them during the padayatra.

"BJP and RSS are targeting Congress from the time of Independence movement till now, but they have been unsuccessful. Former CM BS Yediyurappa, who started the 'Operation Lotus' and purchased MLAs to form the government, has no moral right to make corruption charges against Congress. I request the Congress government to order an investigation to find out who signed the official letters and documents on behalf of Yediyurappa when he was chief minister. The documents must be submitted to the Forensic Science Laboratory to find how many of those signatures were by BY Vijayendra on behalf of his father. Vijayendra is Brastacharada Pitamaha (Father of Corruption)," he alleged.

Housing Minister BZ Zameer Ahmed Khan said apart from the five guarantees, it also launched the sixth one of providing 2.30 lakh houses under the Slum Board housing scheme. "Siddaramaiah provided Rs 7,400 crore for the construction of houses for the poor. People must question opposition leaders on how many houses were distributed during their government... not even one," he said. Forest Minister Eshwar Khandre said that BJP leaders were involved in irregularities in the recruitment of police sub-inspectors, purchase of medical kits during Covid, implementation of Ganga Kalyana project and did injustice to 25 lakh students in NEET exams.

"We appeal to the President of India to remove Governor Thawaar Chand Gehlot for issuing a notice to Siddaramaiah by acting on the directions of BJP leaders," he said.

Industries Minister MB Patil said the governor failed to initiate action against HD Kumaraswamy, though Lokayukta sleuths had sought permission for prosecution a year ago.

"While the governor failed to give sanction to prosecute BJP leaders, he has issued the notice to Siddaramaiah. Congress is ready to fight legally against the Governor's action," he said. Home Minister G Parameshwara and PWD Minister Satish Jarkiholi too talked about the legal fight against the show-cause notice.

Dalits turn away from Congress, say SC/ST funds diverted for guarantees

DEVARAJ B HIREHALLI @Bengaluru:

EVEN as Chief Minister Siddaramaiah received overwhelming support at the Congress party's 'Janandolana' in Mysuru on Friday, a section of Dalit ideologues stayed away, in protest against the party's Dalit MLAs for keeping mum over Scheduled Castes Sub Plan/Tribal Sub Plan (SCSP/TSP) grants of about Rs 25,000 crore being allegedly diverted to fund the guarantee schemes.

This anger against the Siddaramaiah government is likely to be more visible in the coming days. "It is just the beginning and we will continue to gherao the MLAs for not speaking against the diversion of grants meant for SC/STs. We are not Congress party workers to take part in their Janandolana," DSS leader Mavalli Shankar told TNIE.

Led by Shankar and noted writer Kotiganahalli Ramaiah, members of a section of Dalit organisations staged protests outside the residences of Dalit MLAs S N Narayanaswamy of Bangarapet and Roopakala Shashidhar of KGF in Kolar district.

During Siddaramaiah's 75th birthday, celebrated as 'Siddaramotsava' in Davanagere in 2022, scores of Dalits had taken part and thrown their weight behind the leader of AHINDA -- Kannada acronym for minorities, backward classes and Dalits -- and endorsed his leadership.

But over time, Siddaramaiah appears to have lost the sympathy of a section of Dalits due to various factors, including his alleged political animosity with AICC president Mallikarjuna Kharge who had sacrificed the opposition leader's post for him in 2009, observed a Dalit leader. In order to blunt the aversion of a section of Dalits, the CM has declared that he will abide by the classification of SC quota, following the Supreme Court's recent judgement that state governments can take a decision on their own in this regard.

Interestingly, on Thursday, BJP state president BY Vijayendra held a meeting with some Dalit organisations under the leadership of Karnataka Legislative Council's leader of opposition Chalavadi Narayanaswamy, and took them into confidence. It is part of the strategy to mobilise more Dalit members for the BJP-JDS padayatra that concludes in Mysuru on Saturday.

Will continue to raise my voice for voiceless: CM

SIDDARAMAIAH said communal forces also pulled down the governments headed by leaders from backward communities in the past. JDS leaders HD Deve Gowda and HD Kumaraswamy failed to keep their promises made while forming coalition governments in the state.

Deve Gowda strongly opposed formation of the JDS-BJP government in 2006. Gowda and Kumaraswamy are now trying to destabilise the Congress government in the state using the Raj Bhavan route, Siddaramaiah said.

Recalling his four-decade journey in politics, he said he will not yield to the pressure tactics and conspiracies of the opposition parties. "I will continue to work for the development of Dalits, poor and the voiceless in society," he added. On the opposition's allegation of irregularities in the allotment of MUDA sites, he said that it is part of a conspiracy by some powerful lobbies to dislodge him as CM.

Siddaramaiah said that BJP and JDS leaders have no moral right to seek his resignation when 82-year-old Yediyurappa is facing a POSCO case and Vijayendra and Kumaraswamy are allegedly involved in many scams. Leader of Opposition in the Legislative Assembly R Ashoka has obtained a stay order in the BR Kaval case. "I don't believe in vindictive politics. If I had done vindictive politics, many leaders from opposition parties would have been in jail by now," he said.

MY TAKE

Olympics: Victories, defeats and the value of analysis & action

NIRAD MUDUR
Deputy Resident Editor, Karnataka
niradgmudur@newindianexpress.com

THE ongoing Paris Olympics 2024 and the happy-sad events that have unfolded have valuable lessons for all in sports, business and politics – for that matter, in almost everything that we endeavour to achieve in life. In particular, attention needs to be drawn to one that could be learnt after young Indian badminton star Lakshya Sen's defeat in the bronze medal match, leaving India's badminton contingent without a single medal. The 22-year-old shuttler's defeat evoked a response from the India badminton coach and legend Prakash Padukone, who said in a post-match reaction that "players need to take the responsibility" for winning the games.

The comment drew sharp reactions from athletes. An eminent sports journalist also insisted in an "open letter" to Padukone that responsibility for wins and losses in games should be taken not only by the player/s, but the entire team – including the support staff and the coaches, in particular. It threatened to turn into a "who-is-to-be-blamed?" debate. The same could apply to any game in any sport, involving any country's athletes – indeed to anyone, in any field in pursuit of success, victory or glory.

The answer to that question could lie in the works of Phil Rosenzweig, noted author who highlights the importance of psychological and cognitive mechanisms at play in business strategies, who is also professor of strategy and international management at International Institute for Management Development in Lausanne, Switzerland. He brings this out in his book, Left Brain, Right Stuff: How Leaders Make Winning Decisions. He shows that to be a winner, two very different skills are required: talent for clear analysis and the willingness to take bold action, stressing that success calls for calculation and courage, for analysis as well as action.

The winning combination involves meticulous planning followed by perfect execution based on the planning. He cites Peter Gollwitzer, psychologist at New York University, who highlights and distinguishes between two different mindsets required for it – a deliberative mindset and an implemental mindset.

A deliberative mindset should have a detached and impartial attitude, setting aside emotions while focusing on the facts, and is appropriate while assessing the feasibility of a project, planning a strategic initiative or deciding on an appropriate course of action. This mindset is all about open-mindedness and deciding what should be done.

The implemental mindset is all about getting the results by setting aside doubts and focussing on achieving the desired performance, where positive thinking is essential. This is all about close-mindedness and achieving the aims with a high degree of positivity and confidence.

Rosenzweig stresses that it's important for the team as a whole to switch between the two mindsets as the contest unravels. However, it is fairly clear where coaches and the support staff play their roles and where the players do. The former are more involved with a deliberative mindset, while the latter need to crack it with an implemental mindset.

Overall, both need to work it out together, but it is ultimately the player who has to deliver with a positive mind with a high degree of confidence, because it is the player who will decide and influence the outcome.

"Before an activity, it is important to be objective about our abilities and about the task at hand," says Rosenzweig. "After the activity, whether we have been successful or not, it's once again important to be objective about our performance and to learn from feedback. Yet, in the moment of action (and this is where Padukone's point of players needing to take responsibility gains importance), a high degree of optimism – even when it may seem excessive – is essential."

However, he also cites American psychologist and educationist Martin Seligman while stressing that it should not be simply optimism, but "learned optimism" – the ability to nurture a dynamic view allowing the executor of the plan (in this case the player in the centre) to shift between the mindsets. This means that the deliberative mindset in the planning stage should continue playing an active part of the implemental mindset even when it boils down to the player executing the plan for which months and years were consumed before the competition.

Rosenzweig concludes the book with: "Even then success is never assured, not in the competitive arenas of business or sports or politics. Performance is often relative and consequences of failure are harsh. A better understanding of decision-making, however, and an appreciation for the role of analysis as well as action, can improve the odds of success. It can help us win."

'Vacancies may not be filled soon'

SOURCES in the government told TNIE that on an average, 200 proposals are received every year from various departments. Each proposal will have a request to fill several vacant posts. "Most of the proposals are from the Health, Education, Police and Medical Education departments. We have to keep in mind the financial implications. In most cases, we give approval only for a few posts in departments where staff shortage is severe," the sources said.

"If recruitments are made to all vacant posts, we will be obliged to pay as per the Seventh Pay Commission's recommendations. As such, the government has to mobilise Rs 52,000 crore for its guarantee schemes. It has to clear contractors' dues running into several crores and other pending bills. This means, vacant posts may not be filled soon," sources in the Finance Department said.

CS Shadakshari, president of the Karnataka State Employees' Association, said the government will be able to give better administration if it fills vacant posts in all its departments. "Ours is a long-pending demand to fill vacant posts so as to reduce the work pressure on employees of various departments," he added.

Spl court to pass orders on plaint against CM, wife, others in MUDA scam on Aug 13

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

THE special court to try cases against sitting and former MPs/MLAs in the city will pass its order on August 13 on whether there is prima facie material to refer a private complaint filed against Chief Minister Siddaramaiah, his wife Parvathi BM and others by a social worker in the alleged irregularity in Mysuru Urban Development Authority (MUDA) for a probe by independent investigating agencies, like the Lokayukta or Central Bureau of Investigation.

Judge Santhosh Gajanan Bhat adjourned the matter to August 13 after hearing the arguments of senior counsel Lakshmy Iyengar on behalf of private complainant Snehamayi Krishna from Mysuru.

She argued that the land was denotified in favour of the person who was not at all the owner when Siddaramaiah was the deputy chief minister. The denotified land was purchased by Siddaramaiah's brother-in-law, who later gifted it to Parvathi in 2010. Questions were raised over granting 14 compensatory sites at Vijayanagar, a posh area, to Parvathi, despite vacant sites being available in Devanuru Layout, where the land was situated. Parvathi sought the compensatory sites after her husband became chief minister in 2014, she argued.

She also pointed out that Parvathi was not entitled to 14 sites. Even if she is entitled, only 4,800 sqft can be given, but granting 14 sites is illegal, which was the result of misuse of power by Siddaramaiah, she added.

Only 3% of promises in Congress manifesto fulfilled, finds report

The analysis found that out of 59 promises, only two have been fully implemented. The report highlighted significant shortcomings in the government's performance across various sectors. Public health sector, a critical area, was also neglected, with none of its six promises fulfilled. The promises in the public health sector included filling up vacancies of staff and doctors in all government hospitals, establishment of fully equipped trauma centres every 100 km along national highways, and setting up a Jayadeva-like heart hospital, Kidwai-like cancer hospital, and NIMHANS-type psychiatric hospital in each revenue division. In the education sector, only one of the seven promises was fulfilled, in the employment sector, only one of the 15 promises was implemented and in the environment sector, the sole promise remained only on paper. Kerala HC emphasises need for ecological auditing

Says it will enable govt to revisit policies on development activities

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Kochi

KERALA High Court on Friday emphasized the need for an environmental auditing in the State in the wake of landslides in Wayanad district. Has there been such an audit conducted statewide? Whether any district wise study regarding the natural resources available in the areas? asked the court.

The Division Bench -- Justice AK Jayasankaran Nambiar and Justice Syam Kumar VM-- said that if the government undertakes an environment audit and geo-mapping, it could be a starting point for assessing the use of waters and other resources in the ecologically fragile areas. It would also enable the government to revisit and reformulate policies on allowing quarrying and other development activities in these fragile areas. Once the government do a statewide audit of the environment, it can formulate policies based on it. The auditing could help to understand the various types of terrain, thereby allowing it to determine which activities can be appropriately permitted in each type of terrain.

In response to this, Advocate General K Gopalakrishna Kurup as per the report of the State Disaster Management Authority except for two districts in the state all others are prone to landslide.

The Court also appointed Senior Advocate Ranjith Tampan as amicus curiae to assist the court in the suo motu case initiated in connection with the landslides in Wayanad and sought suggestions from the amicus curiae regarding the existing policies and whether any change in the policies is required.

The court said that there are numerous legislations and authorities involved, and there must be effective coordination among them. It emphasized the need for a 'holistic approach' to prevent and manage natural disasters in the State.

The court noted that the state has various legislations and there are authorities under those, but they were working solos. Therefore, there should be coordination among these authorities. Sustainable development should be undertaken in these ecologically fragile areas. A balance among the economic, social and environmental factors had to be maintained in sustainable development. The court said that it wanted to know whether the State Environment Impact Assessment Authority was effectively functioning. There was no point in having a theoretical structure unless the persons manning the systems were good.

The court impleaded the Geological Survey of India, National Centre for Earth Science Studies, Union Ministry of Science and Technology, State Environment Impact Assessment Authority, Kerala State Disaster Management Authority and Kerala Coastal Zone Management Authority as respondents in the case.

While his exact schedule is yet to be confirmed, survivors of the landslide see Narendra Modi's visit as their last hope for having the disaster declared as a national calamity. Despite the State government's request to the Centre, there has been no response yet. Survivors, currently sheltered at relief camps, are eagerly waiting for a positive announcement from the Prime Minister on Saturday. If the landslide is declared a national disaster, 75% of the funds needed for rehabilitation will be provided through the National Disaster Relief Fund. "We haven't seen a disaster of this scale in India in the recent years. Unofficial reports suggest that more than 600 people have died in the landslide, and over 2,000 have lost everything. What is causing the delay in declaring this devastation as a national disaster then?" asked a survivor. The state government has requested that the Wayanad landslide be classified as an L3 disaster, the most severe category. NRIs seek protection for investments, property

BANSY KALAPPA @ Bengaluru

OVER the years, NRIs have suffered enormous financial losses due to fraud, and have long sought a special bill to safeguard their investments and savings.

Vijayapura BJP MP and former Union minister Ramesh Jigajinagi has championed the cause by writing to Prime Minister Narendra Modi, requesting a meeting to discuss the urgency of this legislation.

Speaking to TNIE over phone, Subhas Balappanavar, international convener of the NRI Grievances Group and a tech professional based in Phoenix, Arizona, stated, "We are pushing for a meeting with PM Modi and members of his cabinet to advocate this bill. PM Modi has shown deep concern for NRIs, and his team has been receptive to our efforts. We want to ensure that the proposed bill, once enacted, will protect NRIs from scamsters and fraudsters."

The NRI Grievances Group, which has over 1,000 members over more than 70 countries, is leading this initiative. Members of the group have already petitioned Indian embassies and consular offices in more than 50 countries, urging the Indian government to introduce a comprehensive bill to protect NRI investments and savings.

One major concern is that the current criminal justice and legal systems in India do not allow NRIs to participate in online hearings and inquiries. NRIs who cannot be physically present in India all year round, often end up losing their cases.

Highlighting the difficulties, Balappanavar said, "The Indian legal system is notoriously slow, with cases dragging on for 20 or even 40 years. How can an NRI take leave for such extended periods? We are demanding that NRIs be allowed to participate in these proceedings online."

PM Modi has shown deep concern for NRIs, and his team has been receptive to our efforts. We want to ensure that the proposed bill, once enacted, will protect NRIs from scamsters and fraudsters

THOROUGH PROBE MUST ON HOW VINESH WAS DISQUALIFIED

MISSED by a mere 100 gm! The disqualification of wrestler Vinesh Phogat from the final bout in the 50-kg category was a big blow for India's Olympic campaign. What could have been a gold medal was reduced to naught overnight, with the country waking up to the heartbreaking news. The rules were clear and it's not that stakeholders did not know about them. But the fracas, which robbed Vinesh of the medal she has been chasing for a decade, demands swift action to ensure such incidents never recur.

A few rushed to take credit when the 29-year-old wrestler stormed into the final, but all of them disappeared into thin air as soon as the news of disqualification broke. They, along with the Indian Olympic Association, Sports Authority of India (SAI) and Wrestling Federation of India (WFI), must reveal where things went wrong. It was SAI that sanctioned a posse of support staff, including a nutritionist and a psychologist, for the grappler, while IOA is the custodian of the Indian contingent in Paris; WFI looks after the sport in the country. What seems baffling is that in national competitions, the federation does not fully follow Olympic and world championship rules. The national events do not have two-day bouts; so Indian wrestlers are not well versed with the two-day weigh-in that eventually led to Vinesh's disqualification.

Wrestlers shedding extra weight is a norm and one can see hordes of them sweating out before the weigh-in. A wrestler usually gains about 1.5 kg, but in Vinesh's case it went beyond 2.5 kg. How and when that happened should be investigated. It's also quite clear that women wrestlers get affected more by weight management, which once again calls for a separate rule for them. But there is a section that believes it can be avoided if wrestlers compete in their normal weight categories and avoid the lure of lower weight categories where they get an edge.

Vinesh and Co have appealed against the disqualification at the Court of Arbitration for Sport and the decision of its appointed sole arbitrator is likely to come in a few days. Whether she is awarded a silver medal or not, it's heartrending that Vinesh has decided to hang her gloves saying, "Wrestling has won and I lost."

IT'S CRUCIAL TO IMPROVE HOUSEHOLD SAVINGS RATE

AFTER a brief slip, household savings behaviour is returning to normalcy, according to the Reserve Bank. This is a welcome development and should help regain the trendline growth rate. In 2022-23, household savings hit a record low at 5.2 percent of the gross national disposable income, while debt rose to an all-time high at 5.7 percent. It all began with the pandemic, when households saved higher proportions in financial assets like mutual funds and equities, which has now partly shifted to physical assets like real estate even if it's translating to higher borrowings. The proportion of physical assets peaked at 12.9 percent of GDP in 2022-23, while the share of net financial savings in total household savings fell from an average of 39.8 percent during 2013-2022 to 28.5 percent in 2022-23. Within financial assets, what is concerning is the diversification of financial products from traditional bank deposits to riskier assets like equities.

None other than RBI Governor Shaktikanta Das raised red flags in June, indicating that derivatives market volumes might have exceeded India's nominal GDP and took up the matter with markets regulator Sebi for appropriate action. A recent Sebi study also found that of the 92.5 lakh retail traders in the derivatives market, only 14.22 lakh made a net profit. In other words, about 85 out of every 100 traders incurred losses. An alarmed Sebi wasted no time to raise the minimum contract size for futures and options (F&O) to ₹20 lakh and limit weekly options contracts. It may take a while for things to subside. But on Thursday, the RBI clarified that not all household savings were being funnelled into the F&O segment, and that equity growth does not necessarily correlate with falling household savings.

That said, the central bank maintained that alternative investments remain attractive to retail customers, due to which banks were facing funding challenges with deposits trailing loan growth. The widening gap between deposits and credit growth could lead to asset liability or liquidity management challenges for banks, who may be forced to take greater recourse to short-term, non-retail deposits and other instruments to meet the credit demand. So Das urged banks to focus on mobilising household savings through innovative products and by leveraging their branch networks. Households account for over 61 percent of the gross domestic savings. Hence it's crucial to sustain the savings momentum.

QUICK TAKE

HOPE FOR THALASSEMIA PATIENTS

THALASSEMIA patients in England are being offered a "life-changing" gene therapy through the country's National Health Service. While there are about 2,300 people in England who suffer from the inherited disorder in which too little haemoglobin is produced by the body, India, with 42 million carriers of beta thalassemia, has the largest number of children in the world living with the trait. Though hospitals have official and unofficial donor groups to make blood available for the transfusions such patients require, it puts enormous strain on families and the healthcare system. Indian authorities should closely follow the English experiment and try to make the therapy available across the country.

The latest budget focuses mostly on the supply side. The sine qua non for sustained growth is demand. Without more benefits to lower income groups, demand will not grow

WHY NOT TO FOCUS ON TRICKLE-DOWN ECONOMICS

K M CHANDRASEKHAR

Former Cabinet and Revenue Secretary, and author of As Good as My Word: A Memoir

SOURAV ROY

NO budget will ever satisfy everyone. In particular, no budget has ever satisfied opposition parties. The 'dream budget' of 1997, which brought in a slew of reforms including reduction of tax rates, liberalised import, greater freedom for foreign investors, voluntary disclosure of undeclared income and the beginning of disinvestment in the public sector, is considered to be a pinnacle of performance for a finance minister. Stocks went up 6.5 percent a day after it was presented.

Years later, I was appointed revenue secretary in the finance ministry and learned that it had taken two years to recover from the dream budget.

In the words of Pranab Mukherjee in his book, "Unfortunately, the dream budget did not remain so. Though it did not exactly morph into a nightmare, in the course of the year, it was found that many projections of revenue receipts and expenditures were off the mark and did not conform to targets that were taken into account while preparing budgetary calculations. Consequently, there was a decline in the rate of growth and employment generation, coupled with rising inflation."

The budget for 2024-25 has to be considered similarly, as one with some good points and some weaknesses. I am not an economist, but have assisted with preparing six budgets, three with the Kerala government and three with the Centre. I studied economics at college. I am, therefore, probably at a slightly better vantage point than many others.

Nirmala Sitharaman's budget philosophy has remained constant. Fiscal rectitude is essential to her, and this is reflected in her full budget for 2024-25. She is determined to move resolutely towards the Fiscal Responsibility and Budget Management Act's target of a 3 percent fiscal deficit, which is good for maintaining the economy's strength and reputation in financial markets.

The budget has several other good features. Investment in infrastructure remains high. Public expenditure on investment is necessary to offset the relatively low levels of private investment. Extending the guarantee scheme to term lending in the small enterprises sector is a good move, although it would have been better had it been extended to Micro Units Development and Refinance Agency Bank loans taken by new start-ups.

Another point has been her gradual attempts to simplify tax laws and procedures without pain to taxpayers, giving them the option to change or not. We saw this in corporate taxes, where companies were given the choice of lower tax rates if they opted for a simpler tax regime with fewer exemptions. We saw the same principle extended to personal income tax.

This year, she has simplified and consolidated the exemptions given to charitable societies, trusts, associations of persons and the like. She has also indicated her resolve to streamline and codify direct tax laws. This has been attempted many times in the past, and the finance minister will benefit from a great deal of paperwork done to make direct tax laws less onerous. The joke in the revenue department is that each time an attempt is made to revise direct tax laws, the government falls.

The weakness in the current budget is it remains firmly on the supply side, as has been this government's policy hitherto. This was seen before the pandemic, when growth remained sluggish due to low demand. Nothing particular was done to revive and strengthen demand. The economy was in a free fall during the pandemic, but the finance minister remained committed to supply-side economics. She seems to be firmly of the conviction that the road to growth lies in making companies more profitable and the poor will rise from poverty only if the wealth of the very rich trickles down little by little. She cut corporate taxes in 2019 as a stimulus but made no change in personal IT rates. Incidentally, the infamous farm laws also came disguised as pandemic stimulus measures, but were widely perceived as anti-farmer and pro-corporate.

The Indian economy recovered relatively rapidly after the pandemic, mainly because of the expression of suppressed demand and the availability of cheaper bank loans. Much of the credit for the bounce-back of the economy should go to the policies adopted by the Reserve Bank. The economy looks good today, with a GDP growth rate of 7-8 percent and high corporate profits. The question is whether the economy has enough energy to sustain these figures until we reach the projected Valhalla in 2047.

We do not see enough horsepower to sustain these rates in the long term, perhaps not even in the medium term. GDP growth rates can only be maintained if there is steady investment. Investment would be sufficient only if investors believe their product will be sold.

The sine qua non for sustained growth is supporting demand. Even though the GDP growth rate may look high—primarily because of the base effect of low growth during the pandemic—the consumption growth rate remains low at 3-4 percent. As a result, even though company profits are high and stocks are mostly booming, capacity utilisation in the corporate sector remains at 75 percent, which is insufficient to induce investment. Add to this the pain caused by the closure of thousands of medium and small enterprises during the pandemic. This is also reflected in high levels of unemployment. The immensity of this problem is concealed in what Joan Robinson called 'disguised unemployment', as indicated in a 3-4 percent rise each in agricultural and casual labour.

Here is where the budget fails. Without more benefits to the middle class and lower income groups, demand will not grow, and without this, production and investment cannot grow. This weakness may show even in the medium term. In the long term, our investment rate may be affected by other factors, primarily the abysmally low rate of investment of 0.6 percent of GDP in R&D and inadequate investment in education and public health.

The government may have to pay a heavy price for its adamant refusal to look at the demand side, particularly the fall in incomes of the lower three-quarters of the pyramid. They have already paid for it by losing their majority in the Lok Sabha, and further retribution may be at hand.

LEVELLING THE OLYMPIC PLAYING FIELD FOR ALL

MADHAVAN NARAYANAN

Senior journalist

REVERSE SWING

AN elephant joke comes to mind as I look at the twists and vaults at the Paris Olympics and the role technology and categorisation plays in deciding winners. Question: What did the elephant say to the ant? Answer: Pick on someone your own size. Seriously, the elephant has a point. The pachyderm may well lose out if the game was about getting into a narrow alley.

There's also Aesop's fable about the fox and the stork, symbolic of how playing fields can be manipulated. As the story goes, the fox invites the stork to a meal and the long-beaked bird misses dinner as it cannot drink from a bowl. The return offer from the stork sees the fox in a fix as the host offers the meal in a narrow-necked vessel. The story can be an early lesson for kids in warfare—and its milder versions, politics and sports.

George Orwell described competitive sport as "war minus the shooting". Talking of shooting, Turkish Olympian Yusuf Dikec is a perfect muse for longtime watchers of sports, technology, and politics, and their fascinating interplay. Dikec sparked viral memes as he wore only an ear plug to the shooting range, unlike most shooters who wear visors, ear-defenders and special lenses with a blinder to improve focus. Dikec won an Olympic silver and an unofficial gold from netizens for being casually cool—featuring grey hair, an intense gaze, t-shirt and plain specs.

India's own darling, Vinesh Phogat, won a moral gold from her supporters at home, especially those who saw her wrestling with powerful men in a sexual harassment scandal. But she missed her stab at an Olympic gold because she was 100 gm overweight in the 50 kg category just ahead of the final bout. This is truly heartbreaking.

Should we have a points system where minor category-linked flaws can be adjusted? What about having a shooting category for those like Dikec who do not sport artificial props?

As a sports-loving kid, I heard with equal fascination and dismay tales of how technology enhanced games and also played spoilsport. Helmets made a stealthy entry into cricket fields in the 1970s, about 100 years after crotch guards and 120 years after gloves. We now have arm, thigh and abdomen guards too. As far as I can see, such things have enhanced the sport by reducing mortal fear.

But hockey is another story altogether. Stars like Dhyan Chand and K D Singh 'Babu' played barefoot on the grass and displayed dazzling dribbling skills before India's golden run ended. Between Amsterdam 1928 and Tokyo 1964, we won seven golds and one silver. As hockey shifted from natural grass to synthetic

PTI

> Should we have more categories to level international playing fields? If India's past performance in Olympic hockey is any indication, Barefoot Olympics may turn the table on richer countries. We may also consider a points system in boxing and wrestling that doesn't disqualify for minor weight discrepancies

AstroTurf surfaces a decade later, the game steadily slipped out of India's grip. Dribbling gave way to long passes.

Athletics has a similar tale. At the Rome Olympics, Abebe Bikila of Ethiopia ran the marathon barefoot to set a new world record after discovering that the official gear supplier, Adidas, had run out of shoes his size. India's Shivnath Singh, who ran with taped feet and no shoes, won a 5,000-metre gold at the Teheran Asian Games in 1974.

Should we reverse-swing sports and have separate games for groups separated by culture, training and technology? Is there a hidden kind of cultural imperialism in which the rich West resembles the cunning fox in Aesop's fable? Perhaps not, but proper segregation is a good thing. You only have to look at wrestling, boxing and gender to get my point.

I covered the Commonwealth Games at Kuala Lumpur in 1998. Though deputed to mainly cover cricket, my task included interviewing boxers, who included a rather frail Canadian kid. Boxers and wrestlers need not all be heavyweight.

Cricket, too, can stretch for five days, or be only 50 or 20 overs long. Why not pepper up other games with similar categories? We could host a Barefoot Olympics to give Westerners an idea of how the field can be levelled. We did some of that in cricket when India's spinners used to excel on the turning pitches of Kolkata and Chennai before Bharat started producing its own battery of excellent fast bowlers.

We may have to take a fresh look at gender classification as well if the Paris Olympics is any indication. Even against the backdrop of a growing LGBTQ rights movements, some mistook Algerian woman boxer Imane Khelif for a transgender and raised an ugly controversy over testing and testosterone. Khelif had failed a questionable gender test by the International Boxing Association in 2023, but the International Olympic Committee declared her fit for Paris. She became a target of disinformation after she won against Italian Angela Carini. The international boxing and Olympic associations are having a heavyweight bout over this issue.

I don't quite know who will deliver the knockout punch. I am certainly not an expert at testing testosterone. However, I do know that categories work better than controversies. Some futuristic fiction may categorise someone as part-female or give minus points if someone's weight is only mildly off the category.

Most of all, I think we need to separate the men from the boys and the elephants from the ants.

₹2.30L cr for housing, 8 rly projects okayed

₹1,765.67 cr approved for Clean Plant Programme to boost horticulture; Pradhan Mantri JI-VAN Yojana modified

PARVEZ SULTAN, RAJESH KUMAR THAKUR & JITENDRA CHOUBEY
@ New Delhi

AMONG a slew of measures that the Narendra Modi-led government took on Friday, the most ambitious appeared to be the Pradhan Mantri Awas Yojana-Urban (PMAY-U) 2.0.

Under this scheme, financial assistance will be provided to one crore urban poor and middle-class families through states, UTs or Primary Lending Institutions to construct, purchase or rent a house at an affordable cost in urban areas in five years.

The government will provide financial assistance of ₹2.30 lakh crore under the scheme.

The decision was taken at the cabinet meeting chaired by Prime Minister Narendra Modi. Under the scheme, families belonging to Economically Weaker Section (EWS), Low Income Group (LIG) or Middle Income Group (MIG) segments having no pucca house are eligible to purchase or build a house.

The PMAY-U is one of the major flagship programmes being implemented by government to provide all-weather pucca houses to all eligible beneficiaries in the urban areas. Under this, 1.18 crore houses have been sanctioned while more than 85.5 lakh houses have already been constructed and delivered.

EWS households are families with an annual income up to ₹3 lakh, while the LIG households are families with an annual income from ₹3-6 lakh. The criteria for the MIG has been modified as households with annual income of ₹6-9 lakh are eligible under the category.

In addition, the corpus fund of Credit Risk Guarantee Fund Trust has been increased from ₹1,000 crore to ₹3,000 crore to provide benefit of credit risk guarantee on affordable housing loans from banks, housing finance companies, or primary lending institutions to EWS and LIG segments.

In another decision, the Cabinet Committee on Economic Affairs approved eight projects of the Ministry of Railways with a total estimated cost of ₹24,657 crore. The projects aim at enhancing connectivity, facilitating ease of travelling, minimising logistic cost and reduce oil imports.

Briefing the media about the decisions, Railway Minister Ashwini Vaishnaw said the total projects of the railways approved by the cabinet will be completed by 2030-31, generating employment for about 3 crore man-days during their construction phases.

"The projects are in line with the PM's vision of a new India, which will make people of the region self-reliant by way of a comprehensive development," Vaishnaw said.

The eight projects will cover 14 districts across seven states — Odisha, Maharashtra, Andhra Pradesh, Jharkhand, Bihar, Telangana and West Bengal.

The cabinet also approved ₹1,765 crore for clean plant programme to revolutionise the horticulture sector.

Under the Clean Plant Programme, nine world-class Clean Plant Centres (CPCs), equipped with advanced diagnostic therapeutics and tissue culture labs, will be established across India. These centres will play a crucial role in producing and maintaining virus-free planting material meant for larger propagation.

The nine state-of-the-art CPCs include grapes (NRC, Pune), temperate fruits (CITH, Srinagar and Mukteshwar), citrus fruits (CCRI, Nagpur and CIAH, Bikaner), mango/guava/avacado (IIHR, Bangaluru), mango/guava/litchi (CISH, Lucknow), pomegranate (NRC, Sholapur) and tropical/subtropical fruits in eastern India.

31-member JPC to look into Waqf Bill provisions formed

RAJESH KUMAR THAKUR @ New Delhi

THE Narendra Modi government on Friday formed a 31-member Joint Parliamentary Committee on the Waqf Bill, which proposes as many as 40 amendments to the existing 1995 Act. Both Houses adopted a motion for nominating the members to the JPC.

The joint committee will submit its report to the House by the last day of the first week of next session of Parliament.

An official communication stated that 21 members of the committee are from the Lok Sabha while the rest are from the Upper House.

The Lok Sabha MPs include Jagdambika Pal, Dr Nishikant Dubey, Tejasvi Surya, Aparajita Sarangi, Dr Sanjay Jaiswal, Dilip Saikia, Abhijit Gangopadhayay, DK Aruna, Gaurav Gogoi, Imran Masood, Dr Mohammad Jawed, Mohibbullah, Kalyan Banerjee, A Raja, Lavu Sri Krishna Devarayalu, Dileshwar Kamait, Arvind Sawant, Mahtre Balya Mama Suresh Gopinath, Naresh Ganpat Mhaske, Arun Bharti and Asaduddin Owaisi.

The Rajya Sabha adopted the motion and named 10 MPs — Brij Lal, Medha Vishram Kulkarni, Gulam Ali, Radha Mohan Das Agrawal (all BJP), Syed Naseer Hussain (Congress), Mohammed Nadimul Haque (AITC), V Vijayasai Reddy (YSRCP), M Mohamed Abdulla (DMK), Sanjay Singh (AAP) and nominated member Dharmasthala.

The Bill was introduced in Lok Sabha on Thursday and was referred to a joint parliamentary panel after a heated debate. The government asserted the proposed law did not intend to interfere with the functioning of mosques. The Opposition charged that the Bill targeted the Muslims and was an attack on the Constitution.

When the Rajya Sabha assembled, Parliamentary Affairs Minister Kiren Rijiju, who is also the minister of minority affairs, moved the motion for nomination of members to the JPC and concurred with the recommendations of the Lok Sabha.

SC refuses to entertain plea seeking to postpone NEET-PG exam on Aug 11

SUCHITRA K MOHANTY @ New Delhi

THE Supreme Court on Friday refused to entertain a petition seeking to reschedule the NEET-PG 2024 examination over issues involved in the allocation of exam centres.

The court said that it cannot jeopardise the career of 2 lakh candidates for the five students who have filed the petition.

The plea was moved by one Vishal Soren, along with four others, citing that they were facing difficulties after being allocated exam centres in cities that are inconvenient for them to reach in a short span.

The allocation of test cities was made on July 31. The designated centres were to be declared on August 8. This decision has left many candidates with very less time to travel to the respective exam centres on August 11, the petition said, seeking appropriate direction to the authorities concerned to reschedule the examination.

While the centres were allocated later to curb malpractices, due to paucity of time, it is difficult for candidates to make arrangements for travel to specific cities, the plea stated.

Senior advocate Sanjay Hegde, appearing for the petitioners, argued that one set of aspirants will take the exam in the morning and others in the afternoon due to shortage of test centres. He urged the bench to issue directions to conduct the exam in a single batch to ensure a fair testing environment for all candidates.

A three-judge bench led by Chief Justice DY Chandrachud and comprising JB Pardiwala and Manoj Mishra said that judges are not academic experts. "How can we postpone such an exam? It is not a perfect world, we are not academic experts and we cannot devise a new education policy. We will not reschedule the exams and put the careers of so many candidates at risk," the bench said, adding that "2 lakh students and 4 lakh parents will weep over the weekend if we postpone it."

Monsoon session over, both Houses adjourned sine die

PREETHA NAIR @ New Delhi

BOTH Houses of Parliament were adjourned sine die on Friday, one sitting ahead of the scheduled end of the session. The Budget session, which began on July 22, was scheduled to end on August 12. When the Rajya Sabha and Lok Sabha were adjourned, the Opposition criticised the move, saying it was not a "good practice".

Delivering a valedictory address after the second session of the 18th Lok Sabha, Speaker Om Birla said the productivity of the House was 136 per cent and 15 sittings were held, which lasted for 115 hours.

While Congress MP Manickam Tagore said adjourning both the Houses sine die is not a "good practice", TMC MP Derek Obrien opined, "For the 11th time, a skittish Modi government has cut Parliament session short. After being out-debated on every subject, including the Budget, Modi's NDA runs away from Parliament."

The government introduced 12 Bills, of which four were passed in Lok Sabha — the Finance Bill, Appropriation Bill, Jammu and Kashmir Appropriation Bill, and Bharatiya Vayuyan Vidheyak 2024.

"After many years, neither the Budget session nor the entire Parliament session was washed out for a single day, and we saw very good business transactions in both Houses, with active participation of the members," said Parliamentary Affairs Minister Kiren Rijiju.

Aviation minister promises online grievance redressal

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

AMID complaints over inflated airfares, Union Aviation Minister Kinjarapu Rammohan Naidu on Friday said the government was planning to introduce an online mechanism to redress grievances to ensure passengers were not exploited by unnecessary fare hikes.

Moving the Bhartiya Vayuyan Vidheyak Bill for passage in the Lok Sabha, Naidu explained that airfare was influenced by various factors, including market demand. "We must ensure that airlines are not under so much pressure that they cannot operate. A balanced approach is needed," he said.

He assured that making airfare affordable was a top priority for the government. "One of my top priorities is to make airfare affordable for the common man," the minister said.

"Until 2014, civil aviation was like 'civilised aviation' but after Prime Minister Narendra Modi, it is considered 'civilian aviation', which reflects our commitment," he said.

In response to the issue of rising airfare, Naidu announced plans to establish an online grievance redress mechanism. "We are considering setting up an online mechanism to handle grievances, with a dedicated team, to ensure passengers are not exploited by unnecessary airfare hikes," he said.

This initiative is part of the ministry's proactive stance on ensuring fair pricing, he said.

Dhankhar, Jaya Bachchan faceoff in Upper House as Oppn stages walkout

RAJESH KUMAR THAKUR @ New Delhi

THE Rajya Sabha on Friday witnessed a heated exchange between chairman Jagdeep Dhankhar and Samajwadi Party MP Jaya Bachchan, leading to a walkout by Opposition parties.

Bachchan objected to the "tone" in which Dhankhar addressed her as well as switching off the mike of Leader of the Opposition Mallikarjun Kharge. The chairman said he can't be "schooled" and that Bachchan "may be anybody... a celebrity" but she has to observe decorum.

As Dhankhar refused to allow her or anyone from the Opposition to speak, INDIA bloc parties staged a walkout.

Trouble broke out when the Congress MPs sought an apology from BJP member Ghanshyam Tiwari for comments he had made on Kharge last week. Dhankhar insisted that the matter had been resolved in his chamber.

Bachchan indicated that she wanted to speak on the issue and Dhankhar called her by her full registered name, Jaya Amitabh Bachchan.

"I am an actor. I understand body language and expression. Please forgive me but your tone is unacceptable. We are colleagues sir, you may be sitting on the chair," said Bachchan.

Dhankhar shot back and said, "Jaya ji, you've earned a great reputation. You know, an actor is subject to the director. You've not seen what I see from here... I don't want schooling. I am a person who has gone out of the way, and you say my tone...," responded Dhankhar.

The comments infuriated the Opposition MPs who started shouting slogans. When they said they are staging a walkout, Dhankhar said, "You are out to create chaos in the House."

MHA forms panel led by BSF ADG to monitor situation on Bangla border

MUKESH RANJAN @ New Delhi

THE Union Ministry of Home Affairs has constituted a committee led by Additional Director General of Border Security Force (BS F) to monitor the current situation on the Indo-Bangladesh Border in the wake of ongoing situation in the neighbouring country.

Home minister Amit Shah announced the decision in a post on micro-blogging site X. "In the wake of the ongoing situation in Bangladesh, the Modi government has constituted a committee to monitor the current situation on the Indo-Bangladesh Border," the minister wrote.

"The committee will maintain communication channels with their counterpart authorities in Bangladesh to ensure the safety and security of Indian nationals, Hindus, and other minority communities living there. The committee will be headed by the ADG, Border Security Force, Eastern Command," the minister posted.

According to MHA officials, the other members of the committee include Inspector General, BSF, frontier headquarters, South Bengal; IG, BSF, frontier headquarters, Tripura; Member, Planning and Development, and Secretary, Land Port Authority of India.

The home ministry's decision follows an intelligence report suggesting that fearing attacks in Bangladesh, a large groups of Hindus have moved towards the border and may attempt to enter India.

Meanwhile, sources in the BSF said that personnel deployed at the eastern frontiers have been instructed to connect with locals residing in the adjacent border areas and alert them. Troops have also been advised to maintain contact with local village leaders.

"We are sending our officials to a few villages near the border. We have instructed them to report if anyone tries to enter India illegally. Local leaders have been asked to alert officials so that the Force can take swift action," said a senior BSF officer.

Sources further said that intelligence inputs have indicated that the period starting from August 15 (Independence Day), which also coincides with a Hindu festival, could be critical.

The intelligence inputs also suggested that cattle smuggling might increase as miscreants could exploit the situation, assuming that the Force is occupied with other security concerns, they added.

'US-backed groups spearheaded Bangla Spring'

YESHI SELI @ New Delhi

A section of Bangladeshi intelligentsia has alleged that students who spearheaded protests in that country received training, were radicalised and taught about regime change with facilitation provided by US-led groups.

"What has happened in Bangladesh in the past few weeks was planned and executed with the help of the US that was eyeing a regime change for a long time. We refer to it as 'Bangla Spring' where students were introduced to radicalised communities, received training on regime changes through study circles," Prof Nazmul Ahsan Kalimullah, a political commentator, told this newspaper, adding that India couldn't see this coming and was literally caught unawares.

Jamaat-e-Islami and BNP (Bangladesh Nationalist Party) activists were behind these group activities. The US was looking at a regime change and was constantly highlighting human rights issues, imposed visa restrictions and had many high-level officials visiting Bangladesh in the last two years.

"Sheikh Hasina banned the Islami Chhatra Shibir and Jamaat-e-Islami by a gazette notification as she could see which way they were headed. However, her move sparked this movement as these organisations got supporters who helped mobilise students along with Left-wing political parties. The threat of thousands of students storming Ganabhaban (PM's residence) with no support from the Army made the PM flee," said Kalimullah.

The Army acted as a catalyst with the student agitators. "American diplomat, Donald Lu, known as a global regime change expert, visited Bangladesh several times and met both the ruling and opposition parties. In his last visit he also met student and youth activists and sowed the seeds of revolution in Bangladesh," another Bangladesh academic told this newspaper.

"India too couldn't see this as coming as they relied mostly on the ruling Awami League. The ISI, too, was quite active and was pursuing a proxy war against India. Besides, the Hizb-ut-Tahrir has a strong influence on men in uniform. When the Bangladesh Army chief spoke about the change in government, his first reference was about the radical organisation," Kalimullah added.

Nearly all members of the interim government have a direct connection with the US. The only Hindu invited to be a part of the interim government, Dr Bidhan Ranjan Roy, didn't attend the oath ceremony on Thursday and has been evasive on whether he will join.

Protests against atrocities on minorities continue; mutiny was reported in a jail in Chittagong in which eight people died. Sheikh Hasina continues to stay in India, and her political ambitions, despite the current setback, are far from over.

Time right for J&K polls, says CEC

Dates to be announced after EC holds security review & forces requirement assessment

FAYAZ WANI @ Srinagar

GIVING a clear hint that Assembly polls in Jammu and Kashmir would be held soon, Chief Election Commissioner (CEC) Rajiv Kumar on Friday said time is right for elections and dates for maiden Assembly polls in J&K Union Territory would be announced after Election Commission holds security review and forces requirement assessment in New Delhi.

"The J&K government officials have told us that they are ready to hold polls in the UT. Security challenges remain but it won't stop us from holding polls. The administration is capable enough to deal with the situation," CEC Kumar said addressing a press conference in Jammu.

During their two-day stay in J&K, CEC and two ECs met representatives of nine political parties and top police, civil and security officials to seek their feedback on poll preparedness. J&K is under direct central rule since June 2018 and last Assembly election in J&K was held in 2014.

"Time is right for holding polls. We are committed to conducting elections at the earliest. The state level review has been completed. The Amarnath yatra will end on August 19. We will hold a security review and forces requirement assessment in Delhi and afterwards poll dates will be announced," the CEC said.

Asked whether polls would be held before the September 30 deadline of the Supreme Court, Kumar said, "We will hold a review of forces availability in Delhi and the deadline will be taken note of. It will be taken into consideration".

Buoyed by record voter turnout in J&K in recently held LS polls, he said they are expecting large voter turnout in Assembly polls.

The CEC said if internal or external force think that they can disrupt the Assembly elections, they are wrong. "We are sure J&K people will give a befitting response to disruptive forces and participate overwhelmingly in the polls."

Asked whether militant violence in Jammu will impact polls, Kumar said, "There will be no impact of these terror attacks on polls."

"Our forces and administration are capable enough to deal with any situation that comes the way. The flag of democracy will continue to grow and grow bigger," he added.

The CEC also said clear instructions have been issued to the administration to ensure level playing field to all parties.

"Security should be provided to every party. There would be no clubbing of polling stations at the last minute. Permissions granted to parties for holding rallies should not be withdrawn," he said.

It would be first such polls post Article 370 abrogation and downgrading and bifurcation of erstwhile J&K state into two Union Territories.

Cong march seeks 'justice' for victims of Gujarat tragedies

DILIP SINGH KSHATRIYA @ Ahmedabad

THE Gujarat Congress on Friday launched a 'Nyay Yatra', a 14-day foot march, to seek justice for the victims of four major tragedies that took place in the BJP-ruled state over the last five years.

The yatra, which will cover nearly 350-kms before reaching Gandhinagar on August 23, will seek justice for the victims of 2019 Takshashila fire incident in Surat, Morbi bridge collapse of 2022, and Vadodara boat capsize and TRP game zone fire in Rajkot. The march, which started from Morbi, will also highlight issues of corruption, bootlegging and proliferation of counterfeit officials within the state, Congress leaders said.

Gujarat Congress chief Shaktisinh Gohil said, "Through this yatra, the Congress aims to secure justice for the families affected by a series of catastrophic events. It will also draw attention to the issues confronting Gujarat under the current administration."

Party spokesperson Manish Doshi said family members of the victims of these tragedies will join the the yatra. Party MLA Jignesh Mevani said that nearly 200 people died due to "rampant corruption" under the BJP government. "We are taking out this Nyay Yatra because people do not trust ongoing investigations. Victims of Morbi bridge collapse demand that the probe be conducted by the CBI, or some non-corrupt officers," he said.

This march is likely to be joined later by Congress leaders Rahul Gandhi, Priyanka Gandhi, and Mallikarjun Kharge. Former Gujarat deputy chief minister Nitin Patel claimed that the yatra is intended to disrupt the state's peace. "Law and order is currently well-maintained in the state. The yatra appears designed to disrupt the state's peace. Organising a rally at this time is unnecessary. The rally lacks relevance, as both the government and high court have addressed the issues," he said.

Meghalaya varsity blamed for flash floods

Assam Chief Minister Himanta Biswa Sarma said a private university in Meghalaya is the main reason behind flash floods in Guwahati. He said the flattening of four to five hills at the University of Science and Technology, Meghalaya resulted in flash floods in Guwahati. Established in 2011, USTM is on the other side of Assam-Meghalaya border on Guwahati's southern fringe. "Ever since the USTM was established, the pace of water entering the city increased unprecedently. The then Assam govt should have opposed USTM's establishment. It could have asked Meghalaya to ensure that USTM is established further inside the state," Sarma said.

Encounter deaths: Bruises on bodies, says autopsy

Weeks after three people from tribal Hmar community were killed in an alleged fake encounter in Cachar district, the autopsy reports revealed the bodies bore injuries and bruises caused by blunt force. Earlier, the police claimed the trio, apprehended allegedly with arms, got killed in crossfire during a special operation against suspected militants. The police said the operation was launched based on leads provided by the trio about the presence of militants in a hilly area. The families have already moved the Gauhati High Court alleging that the trio were killed in a fake encounter.

Cash dole scheme for girl students

Assam will provide financial assistance to girl students to increase their enrolment in higher education and fight child marriage. It launched the Nijut Moina Scheme, under which it will provide financial support of ₹10,000 per year to higher secondary students, ₹12,500 to under-graduate students and ₹25,000 to post-graduate students. The scheme will complement the ongoing free admission scheme. Chief Minister Himanta Biswa Sarma said the scheme has a core social message which is to end child marriage. He said as they are married off early, they get deprived of adequate nutrition and education.

IIT-G student found dead, sparks uproar

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Guwahati

"It is with profound regret that IIT Guwahati reports the tragic death of a female student on campus on 9 August 2024. The matter is being investigated by the police authorities," the institute said in a statement.

"The student's immediate family has been informed, and the institute is providing them full support during this difficult time," it added.

It was learnt that the 23-year-old student hailed from Uttar Pradesh. She was pursuing M. Tech. The reason behind her death was not known. Her body was found after her friends noticed her absence from classes during the day.

RUN-UP TO POLLS IN MAHARASHTRA

MahaYuti Maha plan to address agrarian distress to turn the tide

SUDHIR SURYAWANSHI @ Mumbai

THE agrarian distress was one of the major reasons for Mahayuti's loss in the Lok Sabha elections. In the Assembly polls, barely a few months away, the alliance government has decided to focus on farm issues, especially cotton and soybean growing farmers.

State government sources said the Mahayuti government is contemplating working on either schemes or direct benefits to the cotton and soybean-growing farmers. More than 80% of the farm area comes under two major crops in Maharashtra -- cotton and soyabean.

"If we get a solution for these farmers, then we will be able to get some satisfactory solution ahead of the assembly elections. Cotton growers demand ₹12,000 per quintal against the government rate of ₹7,200. Soybean growers are demanding at least ₹8,000 per quintal against the government rate of ₹4,200 per quintal," said a senior NCP(Ajit) minister.

"The current market rates of these crops have gone below the government rates. Therefore farmers are angry. That is a key factor ahead of the assembly polls," said the NCP minister.

> If we get a solution for these farmers, then we will be able to get some satisfactory solution ahead of the assembly elections. Cotton growers demand ₹12,000 per quintal against the government rate of ₹7,200
>
> NCP minister

A Shiv Sena (Shinde faction) leader said the government was going ahead with huge publicity of Ladli Behna Yojana, three free gas cylinders and reducing the tariff of farm electricity. "However, until agrarian issues are addressed, it will be difficult to counter the farmers' anger against the government," he said.

"The government thinks the MSP should be raised to ensure farm produce is purchased at this rate only. The second option is to credit additional compensatory amounts to the cotton and soyabean growers. If this happens, we will turn the tide in our favour and return to power," he said.

Direct benefits

The state government sources said the Mahayuti government is contemplating working on either schemes or direct benefits to the cotton and soybean growing farmers.

Cong to replicate LS formula, banks on collective leadership

SUDHIR SURYAWANSHI @ Mumbai

MAHARASHTRA Congress has decided to use its tried and tested method of collective leadership and decentralised decision making for the Maharashtra state assembly elections scheduled in October.

Congress in-charge of Maharashtra Ramesh Chennithala held a review meeting and decided to empower local and regional leaders for the polls.

In the recent Lok sabha elections, Congress emerged as the single-largest party by winning 13 LS seats against one in previous polls, while the BJP secured only nine seats.

Uddhav Thackeray-led Shiv Sena won nine seats while Chief Minister Eknath Shinde-led Shiv Sena won seven seats. Sharad Pawar-led NCP won eight LS seats and his nephew deputy chief minister Ajit Pawar- led NCP only one seat.

"In state assembly elections too, we have decided to give more powers to local leaders while selecting the candidates and entrusting the responsibility. The party leadership has decided to take the local leaders into confidence before taking any decision," said a senior Congress leader.

As per a Maharashtra Congress insider, the Vidarbha region responsibility is divided among Maharashtra Congress president Nana Patole, Leader of Opposition Vijay Wadettiwar, and former ministers Yashomati Thakur and Sunil Kedar. Besides, the recently elected Lok Sabha MPs will also chip in for micro decisions and planning.

Former minister Satej Patil, former chief minister Prtihviraj Chavan and Congress MLA Vishwajit Kadam have been entrusted the responsibility of Western Maharashtra region.

> We have decided to give more powers while selecting candidates and entrusting responsibility. The party leadership has decided to take the local leaders into confidence before taking any decision.

LS poll results

Uddhav Thackeray-led Shiv Sena won 9 Lok Sabha seats while Chief Minister Eknath Shinde-led Shiv Sena won seven seats. Sharad Pawar-led NCP won eight seats.

BSF takes to teaching English to keep Punjab youngsters away from drugs

HARPREET BAJWA @ Chandigarh

THE Border Security Force (BSF) is providing coaching of International English Language Testing System (IELTS) to 50 youngsters of five villages along the International Border in Punjab, as part of its efforts to wean them off drug abuse.

Sources said the BSF selected 50 students of five villages (Rajoke, Wan, TJSingh, Kalia and Dal) on the Indo-Pak border in Taran Taran district after screening and a shortlisting process. As many as 80 youths applied for coaching. The force hired two teachers and started a five-month course in January this year. The ended on May 31 at Amarkot in Tarn Taran. Of the 50 youths, more than half were girls.

A BSF officer said the initiative came under the 'Vibrant Village Programme.' "Almost all of them were sons and daughters of landless farmers who could not afford IELTS as the fees per student for this coaching is around ₹50,000. "They were also given free transport facility," he said.

Sources said BSF was awaiting the nod for starting the second IELTS course. This time the youth who have completed their degrees will be eligible for this coaching following changes in the rules for IELTS. "We have already received good response for the second training course," said an officer.

Border Security Force (Punjab Frontier) Inspector General Atul Fulzele said villagers and their children approached the officers from the 103rd battalion, expressing their inability to afford IELTS training and requested us to support them so that they can get coaching. "Around 50 youngsters, mainly girls, have been given IELTS coaching, with three girls having successfully cleared the exam," said Fulzele.

"The primary objective of this initiative is to engage the youth in productive activities, keeping them off drugs," he said. Addressing concerns about whether this would encourage youngsters to move abroad, Fulzele pointed out the youth's keen interest. "We are equipping them with a skill that allows them to excel not only in India but also abroad," he said.

Yunus keeps defence, edu and 25 other portfolios

Mohammad Touhid Hossain gets charge of foreign affairs, retired Army brigadier general M Sakhawat Hossain to head home ministry

DHAKA

BANGLADESH'S interim leader Muhammad Yunus on Friday announced the portfolios of his 16-member council of advisors and named a former top diplomat to head the foreign ministry, who underlined the importance of maintaining a "balance" in Dhaka's relations with the "big powers".

The 84-year-old Nobel laureate's first task is to bring stability to Bangladesh after he responded to a call by student protesters for him to temporarily lead the country following weeks of deadly anti-government demonstrations against the government led by Sheikh Hasina. Yunus was sworn in on Thursday as the head of an interim government following the toppling of Prime Minister Hasina's government and the dissolution of parliament on Monday. He is also a longtime critic of Hasina, who fled to India following the political turmoil in Dhaka. Yunus was sworn in as the chief advisor — a position equivalent to prime minister. Other advisors were selected in consultation with student leaders, the military, and civil society representatives.

According to an official announcement, Yunus will oversee a broad array of ministries keeping to himself 27 portfolios including the defence, public administration, education, energy, food, water resources and information ministries.

Former foreign secretary Mohammad Touhid Hossain has been entrusted with the charge of the foreign ministry while retired Army brigadier general M Sakhawat Hossain was tasked to oversee the home ministry.

Hossain was the Deputy High Commissioner of Bangladesh in Kolkata from 2001 to 2005 and served as Foreign Secretary of Bangladesh from 2006 to 2009.

Restoring law and order is the key priority of the interim government at the moment and others will be back on track once the first goal is achieved, Foreign Affairs adviser Hossain told reporters here. He also said that Bangladesh needs to have good relations with all the countries, the UNB news agency reported. "We want to keep good relations with all. We need to maintain a balance of relations with the big countries," Hossain said, without naming any nation. Former Bangladesh Bank governor Salahuddin Ahmed will be in charge of the finance and planning ministries while former attorney general A F Hassan Arif will oversee the local government ministry.

Two coordinators of Students Against Discrimination inducted in the interim cabinet M Nahid Islam and Asif Mahmud were given the charge of telecommunications and information technology and youth and sports ministries respectively. The group waged first the street movement to reform the quota system for government jobs last month which later turned into a public upsurge and ousted Hasina's 15-year regime and installed the interim government.

Three members of the advisers' council, mostly civil society figures, could not take the oath on Thursday night at the Bangabhaban presidential palace as they were outside of the capital and officials presumed that Yunus might distribute some of the 27 portfolios to them. Meanwhile, some police stations in Bangladesh, which were deserted during the peak of the anti-government protests, are slowly resuming their normal activities with the assistance of the military, according to media reports on Friday. PTi

No survivors after plane with 62 crashes in Brazil state

SAO PAULO

AN airplane crashed on Friday in Brazil's Sao Paulo state, killing all 62 on board.

The plane was carrying 58 passengers and four crew. Local authorities said all of them were dead.

"A plane just crashed in the city of Vinhedo in Sao Paulo, with 58 passengers and four crew members and it seems that everyone died," President Luiz Inacio Lula da Silva said in the middle of a speech in Itajai in Santa Catarina state.

The ATR-72 aircraft was traveling from Cascavel in southern Parana state to Sao Paulo's Guarulhos International Airport.

In a statement, Voepass reported "an accident involving flight 2283." "There is still no confirmation of how the accident occurred or the current situation of the people on board," it said.

Images broadcast on local media showed a large plane nosediving at high speed, while others showed a large column of smoke rising from the crash site in what appeared to be a residential area.

Firefighters, military police and the civil defence authority dispatched teams to the crash site in Vinhedo. Authorities sealed off the entrance to the residential area where the plane went down, as journalists waited outside for updates.

Brazilian television network GloboNews showed aerial footage of an area on fire with smoke coming out of an obliterated plane fuselage. Additional footage on GloboNews earlier showed the plane drifting downward vertically, spiraling as it fell. The plane departed from Cascavel, in the state of Parana. Agencies

Iranian cyber agents trying to influence US polls: MS

WASHINGTON

IRAN is accelerating online activity that appears intended to influence the US election, in one case targeting a presidential campaign with an email phishing attack, Microsoft said on Friday.

Iranian actors also have spent recent months creating fake news sites and impersonating activists, laying the groundwork to stoke division and potentially sway American voters this fall, especially in swing states, the technology giant found.

The findings in Microsoft's newest threat intelligence report show how Iran, which has been active in recent US elections, is evolving its tactics for another election that's likely to have global implications. The report goes a step beyond anything US intelligence officials have disclosed, giving specific examples of Iranian groups and the actions they have taken so far. Iran's United Nations mission denied it had plans to interfere or launch cyberattacks in the US presidential election.

The report doesn't specify Iran's intentions besides sowing chaos in the United States, though US officials have previously hinted that Iran particularly opposes former President Donald Trump. US officials also have expressed alarm about Tehran's efforts to seek retaliation for a 2020 strike on an Iranian general that was ordered by Trump. This week, the Justice Department unsealed criminal charges against a Pakistani man with ties to Iran who's alleged to have hatched assassination plots targeting multiple officials, potentially including Trump. AFP

CROSS-BORDER ATTACK

Ukraine presses on with Kursk incursion, hits Russian airbase

MOSCOW

UKRAINE pressed on with a major cross-border incursion into Russia on Friday, also launching a significant air attack on a Russian airfield hundreds of kilometres behind the front lines.

The Ukrainian offensive into Russia's western Kursk region, launched Tuesday, appears to be the most significant attack on Russian soil since Moscow invaded in February 2022.

Russia says around 1,000 Ukrainian troops and more than two dozen armoured vehicles and tanks were involved in the initial attack, though it has since claimed to have destroyed many more pieces of hardware.

Kyiv has not officially taken responsibility for the operation, but Ukrainian President Volodymyr Zelensky said in his evening address on Thursday that Russia needed to "feel" the consequences of its invasion.

Ukraine said Friday it had carried out a massive air strike on a Russian military base in the Lipetsk region, around 280 kilometres from the Russia-Ukraine border. The local Russian governor Igor Artamonov reported a "massive" drone attack overnight and Russian state news agencies said the airfield was on fire. "Last night, the Ukrainian Defence Forces attacked the Lipetsk airfield," Ukraine's General Staff said in a post on Telegram.

It said it had struck "warehouses containing guided aerial bombs and a number of other facilities" and that a "massive fire broke out" with "multiple detonations."

Artamonov cancelled several public events in the region and issued evacuation orders for districts close to the air base.

Israel agrees to resume Gaza truce talks next week

JERUSALEM

ISRAEL has agreed to resume Gaza ceasefire talks next week at the request of international mediators, Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu's office said, after intensive diplomatic efforts aimed at averting a region-wide conflagration.

The announcement followed an Iranian claim that Israel wants to spread war in the Middle East, as well as repeated accusations by Hamas militants, some analysts, and critics in Israel that Netanyahu has prolonged the fighting in Gaza.

Israel's military on Thursday said troops had begun operations in the area of Khan Yunis, the southern Gaza city from which Israeli soldiers had withdrawn in April after months of fierce fighting with Hamas. Israel has vowed to destroy the Palestinian Islamist movement but during 10 months of war across Gaza has found itself returning to some areas to fight the militants again.

Iran Navy adds new missiles, drones

Israeli strike kills Hamas commander

An Israeli strike on a vehicle in the south Lebanon city of Sidon on Friday killed a Hamas commander, the Palestinian militant group and the Israeli military said. Hamas said its "commander" Samer al-Hajj was killed "in a Zionist strike in the city of Sidon"

"Enough, for both, the Jews and Hamas!" shouted Khan Yunis resident Ahmed al-Najjar.

"Have mercy on us for God's sake, the young children and women are dying in the streets. Enough! Where will the people go?"

After the military issued an evacuation order for parts of Khan Yunis, AFPTV images showed a crowd of people flowing through dusty, damaged streets on foot or on donkey and motorcycle carts piled with belongings as horns honked.

Hamas's unprecedented October attack on Israel started the war in Gaza that has pulled in Iran-aligned groups in neighbouring countries. Following vows of vengeance after the killing of two senior militants, fears of a broader Middle East war have surged.

There has been only one truce in the Gaza fighting, a week-long pause in November that saw Israeli hostages held by Hamas freed in exchange for Palestinian prisoners detained in Israel. United States, Qatari and Egyptian mediators have for months tried to secure another deal. In a joint statement on Thursday, the three countries' leaders invited the warring parties to resume talks on August 15 in Doha or Cairo "to close all remaining gaps and commence implementation of the deal without further delay". AFP

Trump's light schedule raises eyebrows as Harris blitzes US battleground states

PALM BEACH

DONALD Trump was to campaign Friday in a safe Republican state as Kamala Harris barnstorms the battlegrounds likely to decide November's election, carried by surge in momentum that has left her opponent scrambling.

With election day just three months away, Trump's light schedule —a rally every four or five days—has been contrasted with the hectic programme of an opponent almost 20 years his junior, and his with own vigorous campaigning in 2016.

The 78-year-old tycoon has held just five rallies since the Republican National Convention concluded in mid-July—one fewer than Harris is staging this week alone—and has no events at all announced yet for next week.

Eight years ago, Trump was staging multiple events a day by August, but the oldest major party presidential nominee in US history is venturing out of Florida for the first time this week for a rally in Montana, a state he should win easily.

The ex-president bristled at questions over his schedule in a hastily-convened press conference at his home in south Florida Thursday.

He said he had been absent from battleground states because he was "leading by a lot and because I'm letting their convention go through," a reference to the Democratic National Convention, which doesn't end until August 22. The Harris campaign called the ex-president "low energy"—a favorite Trump insult—while his former communications chief Alyssa Farah Griffin bemoaned Republicans not picking a "younger, more vibrant candidate."

Trump appeared on track to win back the White House before Joe Biden dropped out of the race on July 21, but Harris has made big gains since replacing the president at the top of the ticket. Her rise appears to have wrongfooted Trump, who dismissed her surging polling numbers as he held court in front of journalists at his Mar-a-Lago estate for a free-wheeling hour-plus news conference. AFP

Adani gets reminder over delay in 5G rollout

Department of telecommunication has sent another letter to the company seeking explanation for delay

RAKESH KUMAR @ New Delhi

FRUSTRATED with the delay in rollout of 5G services by the Adani Data Networks Ltd (ADNL), the department of Telecommunication (DoT) has sent another letter to the company reminding it of its obligations towards 5G network in India. The letter has sought an explanation for the delay in launching commercial 5G services in the country. According to government officials, the DoT is still awaiting a response from ADNL.

The company, which is a subsidiary of Adani Enterprises Ltd, acquired 5G spectrum in 2022. As per the regulatory guidelines, the company is mandated to deploy a commercial 5G network by 10 October 2024. If it fails to do so, the government may revoke the allocation of spectrum. "We have written to Adani Data Networks to inquire why it has not yet launched 5G services in India. Initially, the company indicated plans to launch a captive network for its business operations. However, the license mandates that they must roll out commercial 5G services nationwide," said a senior DoT official. The DoT has sent a similar letter in January this year, seeking an explanation for delay in launch of 5G services. Queries sent to Adani Group for a statement remained unanswered at the time of filing of the report.

Adani Data Networks, the telecommunications arm of the Gautam Adani-led conglomerate, holds a unified license for access services, allowing it to provide a full range of telecom services across India. The company acquired 400 MHz of spectrum in the 26 GHz (millimeter wave) band during the July 2022 auction for ₹212 crore. Adani secured spectrum in six circles—Andhra Pradesh (50 MHz), Gujarat (100 MHz), Karnataka (50 MHz), Mumbai (100 MHz), Rajasthan (50 MHz), and Tamil Nadu (50 MHz)—focusing on areas where it has significant business interests. According to license conditions, ADNL was required to launch commercial 5G services in both metro and non-metro circles within the first year. Failure to meet these rollout deadlines may result in the imposition of late fees, structured as follows: ₹1 lakh per week for the first 13 weeks, ₹2 lakh per week for the following 13 week and ₹4 lakh per week for the subsequent 26 weeks. "These penalties can accumulate up to ₹1.40 crore for each phase of delay.

If the delay exceeds 52 weeks, the government may also withdraw the assigned spectrum," says the law. Reports indicate that ADNL has previously incurred fines totaling ₹5 to 6 crore for similar delays. Since the spectrum allocation, Adani Data Networks remains the only company that has not yet launched its 5G service in India.

Ola Electric shares surge 20% on day 1 after muted listing

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

OLA Electric made a silent debut on the exchanges with its shares getting listed at par against its issue price of ₹76 on the BSE. However, post-listing, it witnessed strong buying and hit a 20% upper circuit limit on Friday.

The stock ended the session at ₹91.19 apiece and its market capitalisation surpassed the ₹ 40,000 crore mark. The listing and surge in share prices doubled founder Bhavish Aggarwal's fortune. According to the Bloomberg Billionaires Index, the 38-year-old entrepreneur added $1.5 billion to his wealth on Friday, taking his net worth to $2.7 billion. The shares defied the negative premium it was commanding in the unofficial premium market. Ahead of the listing, Ola Electric shares on Thursday were trading at a discount of 3 in the unlisted market.

"Ola Electric had a strong market debut, defying grey market expectations of a 4-5% discount. The positive performance is attributed to its healthy long-term outlook, 38% market share, benefits from the PLI scheme, and advantages of vertical integration," said Vinod Nair, Head of Research, Geojit Financial Services. Commenting on the listing, Shivani Nyati, Head of Wealth, Swastika Investmart, said the flat listing performance, coupled with a mere 4.45 times subscription, underscores the challenges the company faces in gaining investor confidence.

"While Ola Electric's vision for the EV market is ambitious, the company's current financial performance, marked by consistent losses, and the highly competitive landscape have tempered investor enthusiasm." "The flat listing highlights the need for Ola Electric to demonstrate a clear path to profitability and navigate the complexities of the EV market effectively. Investors are suggested to exit and book a minor profit, but those who want to take risks may hold their position by keeping a stop loss below 70," added Nyati. The much anticipated IPO of Ola Electric was subscribed about 4.5 times, receiving bids for 198.16 crore equity shares against 46.52 crore shares on offer.

Sensex, Nifty surge 1% on positive global cues

India's equity market ended higher on Friday with the benchmarks- BSE Sensex and NSE Nifty50 - gaining over 1% each. The Sensex closed the session 819 points higher at 79,705 and Nifty gained 250 points to settle 24,367. The surge is attributed to positive US jobless claims data as it eases the fears of a recession in the biggest economy. The market capitalisation of BSE-listed firms rose ₹4.46 lakh crore to ₹450.21 lakh crore on Friday against ₹445.75 lakh crore on Thursday.

67k start-ups have at least one woman director

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ Bengaluru

NEARLY 67,500 Department for Promotion of Industry and Internal Trade (DPIIT)-recognised start-ups have at least one woman director, said the ministry of commerce and industry. As on June 30, 2024, the country has 1,40,803 recognised start-ups and since 2016, these recognised start-ups have created over 15.53 lakh direct jobs, the commerce ministry said on Friday.

In the last 6 months of this year, DPIIT has recognised 23,549 start-ups. In 2023 alone, there were 34,842 recognised start-ups. Maharashtra tops with 5,816 recognised start-ups, followed by Gujarat (3,295).

With an aim to encourage investments in the start-up ecosystem, the government launched the Startup India initiative on January 16, 2016. To promote start-ups, various programmes have been undertaken including Startup India Action Plan, Startup India Seed Fund Scheme (SISFS), Fund of Funds for Startups (FFS) Scheme and Startup India Hub, among others.

With a corpus of ₹10,000 crore, the government has established FFS to meet the funding needs of start-ups. DPIIT is the monitoring agency and Small Industries Development Bank of India (SIDBI) is the operating agency for FFS. Startup India Online Hub was launched in 2017 to discover, connect and engage with each other. Grasim Industries reports net loss of ₹52 crore

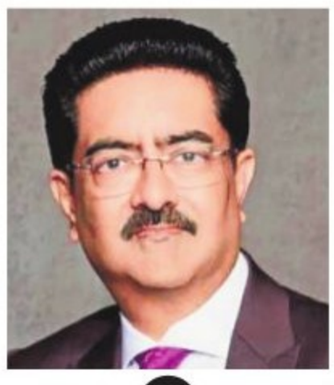
ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ Mumbai

ADITYA Birla group flagship Grasim Industries, which straddles textiles & textile fibres, real estate, building materials, cement and paints, has reported a standalone net loss of ₹52.12 crore in the June quarter despite a 10.5% growth in revenue. It reported a net profit of ₹355.27 crore in the same quarter last fiscal and net loss of ₹440.93 crore in the March 2024 quarter.

Consolidated revenue from operations rose 10.5% to ₹ 6,893.87 crore year-on-year, the city-based company said in a statement. Consolidated net declined to ₹1,207.93 crore as against ₹1,576.47 crore.

The company said its standalone operating revenue plunged 51.7 % to ₹325.1 crore from ₹673.3 crore, while operating margin more than halved to 4.7% from 10.8%. Consolidated operating income also declined 4% to ₹4,760 crore, driven by investments in the paints business, higher depreciation and interest charges on account of new growth businesses, the company said.

Grasim's cement business added new capacity of 8.7 million tonne, taking total grey cement capacity, including domestic and overseas to 154.9 million tonne per annum. Its newly launched paints brand, Birla Opus' market presence reached to over 3,300 towns. Capital expenditure for the quarter stood at ₹983 crore. The budgeted standalone capex for FY25 is ₹4,553 crore, of which around ₹3,000 crore is towards new growth businesses, Grasim said. The cellulosic staple fibre business saw its fourth consecutive quarter of growth due to an improving domestic demand and global price trends. This business achieved its highest ever quarterly sales volume of 212 kilo tonne, which rose 14 %. The cellulosic fashion yarn business saw a marginal volume growth of 2% due to subdued demand in the downstream value chain and due to cheaper imports from Chinese producers.



Standalone operating revenue plunged 51.7 % to ₹325.1 crore from ₹673.3 crore, while operating margin more than halved to 4.7% from 10.8%.

This segment saw revenue growth of 6% at ₹ 3,787 crore. The chemicals business revenue fell 4% to ₹2,066 crore. Speciality chemicals (epoxy polymers and curing agents) revenue mix improved to 30%.

SIPs, debt and fixed income funds drive mutual fund AUM to ₹64.7 L cr

BENN KOCHUVEEDAN @ Mumbai

DESPITE around 9% fall in equity fund inflows, a still roaring SIP book, which hit a fresh record high of ₹23,332 crore along with inflows into other categories boosted total assets under management (AUM) of mutual funds by 6% to ₹64.69 lakh crore in July as against ₹60.89 lakh crore in June.

While inflows into equity funds declined by 8.61% to ₹ 37,113.4 crore in the reporting month due to a fall in investments in large-cap and mid-cap funds, the SIP book roared to a new record high of ₹23,332 crore along, shows the monthly data from the industry lobby Amfi (Association of Mutual Funds of India) on Friday. As against this in June, inflows into equity mutual funds had surged by 17% to ₹40,608.19 crore, a record high.

Inflows into open-ended equity funds have remained in the positive zone for the 41st month in a row. In July, the benchmark Sensex gained 3.43% while Nifty rose 3.92%, despite the budget day setbacks. According to the Amfi data, inflows into monthly gross systematic investment plans (SIPs) hit a fresh record high of ₹23,332 crore in July up from ₹21,262 crore in June.

Debt mutual funds see ₹1.19 lakh crore inflows

In the fixed-income category, debt mutual funds saw net inflows of ₹1,19,587.60 crore, as against net outflows of ₹1,07,357.62 crore in June, while short-term liquid funds category saw net inflows of ₹70,060.88 crore, and money market funds saw fresh investments of ₹28,738.03 crore.

Further, the SIP AUM was highest ever at ₹13,09,385.46 crore in July compared to ₹12,43,791.71 crore in June. Venkat Chalasani, the Amfi chief executive, told reporters that the industry has demonstrated positive growth with retail investors consistently embracing mutual funds as a reliable investment avenue, showing that MFs have become an integral part of retail investors' financial strategies.

Continuous investments in sectoral or thematic funds fuelled inflows into equity mutual funds. In July, the category saw net inflows of ₹18,386.35 crore. This was also because of new fund launches—there were nine new fund offers in the sectoral/thematic fund category garnering ₹12,974 crore in the month.

According to Manish Mehta of Kotak Mahindra AMC, net equity flows declined a tad over June partly due to NFO listings and SIP inflows. Most of the lump-sum purchases seem to be through the NFO route now. In the equity fund category, inflows into large-cap funds slumped 31% to ₹670.12 crore, while mid-cap and small-cap funds also saw fresh inflows slowing. In spite of this, small-cap funds saw net inflows of ₹2,109.20 crore and mid-cap funds saw ₹1,644.22 crore fresh investments in the month.

AGREEMENT ON TRADE PACT AMENDMENTS WITH JAPAN

Indonesia and Japan on Thursday agreed on amendments to an economic agreement to reduce or remove trade barriers, Indonesia said, predicting the revision will boost bilateral trade. Japan will further reduce import tariffs on 112 Indonesian items, including fishery products, fruit, food and beverages, Indonesia's trade ministry said in a statement. Indonesia will improve market access for 25 Japanese products, including stainless steel and automotive, under the new Indonesia-Japan Economic Partnership Agreement (IJEPA), which is expected to be ratified next year. Indonesia's exports to Japan were predicted to surge to $35.9 billion by 2028 in light of the revision, from $20.8 billion in 2023. The new agreement will include an extension for the term of employment of Indonesian nurses and caregivers in Japan and possible liberalisation of workers' movements in other professions.

TAIWAN

JULY EXPORTS MISS EXPECTATIONS

Taiwan's exports rose less than expected in July as weak demand from China offset record orders from the United States which underscored the island's essential role as a supply hub for the booming artificial intelligence (AI) industry. Exports rose 3.1% from a year earlier to $39.94 billion, the finance ministry said, but missed the 6.13% forecast in a Reuters poll and trailed a 23.5% gain in June. It was the ninth consecutive monthly rise. Performance was softer than expected because the "global economic recovery has been mild and Typhoon Gaemi caused fewer days of productivity and temporary delays in delivery," the ministry said. The second half of the year should see a "gradual upward slope" in growth as exports enter their peak season.

GOVT APPROVES INCENTIVE FOR AUTO PART JVS

Thailand is Southeast Asia's biggest autos production centre and an export base for some of the world's top carmakers. The government is heavily promoting investments in electric vehicles in particular, with incentives to lure major firms. Both new projects and existing parts manufacturers that are already enjoying promotions but are transforming into a JV are eligible for two years of additional tax exemption, capped at eight years, providing they apply before the end of 2025, the BOI said.

Lok Sabha clears new aviation bill, to boost ease of doing business

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

REPLACING the 90-year-old Aircraft Act, 1934, the Lok Sabha on Friday passed the Bharatiya Vayuyan Vidheyak Bill 2024 to remove redundancies and boost the ease of doing business in the civil aviation sector.

According to the government, the Bill seeks to resolve existing anomalies between various aviation laws and ensure a coherent regulatory environment with well-defined chapters and clauses.

"This proposed legislation will mark a significant milestone in the Indian aviation sector, streamlining the ease of doing business within the industry. I extend my heartfelt thanks to all the members of the Lok Sabha for their valuable suggestions and support during the deliberations," said Civil Aviation Minister Kinjarapu Rammohan Naidu. While moving the bill, Naidu emphasised the government's commitment to addressing issues related to airfares. He announced plans to establish an efficient online grievance redressal mechanism to manage passenger complaints and ensure timely resolutions.

Mahindra denies $3 billion investment with China's Shaanxi Automobile Group

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

HOME-grown auto-major Mahindra & Mahindra denied a report that suggested the Mumbai-based group was seeking the government approval to invest $3 billion with China's Shaanxi Automobile Group.

It said that the report is unfounded and there is no truth in the matter. "As there has been some unnecessary speculation raised by the Reuters' article, the company on its own considers it necessary to clarify to the stock exchanges that the article is unfounded and there is no truth in the matter," M&M said in a regulatory filing.

A report by Reuters had said that Mahindra's JV with Shaanxi could result in setting up of an integrated car manufacturing facility in Gujarat. At present, JSW Group's MG Motor, which has China's SAIC stake, has a manufacturing unit in Gujarat. The report stated that the two companies were awaiting Indian government's approval and, if approved, a majority stake in the proposed manufacturing venture would be owned by Mahindra.

The proposal included building an export-oriented, integrated manufacturing hub for assembled cars - known as completely built-up units - as well as engines and car batteries, the report quoting sources said.

Meanwhile, Mahindra has confirmed the debut of the Thar Roxx on August 15.

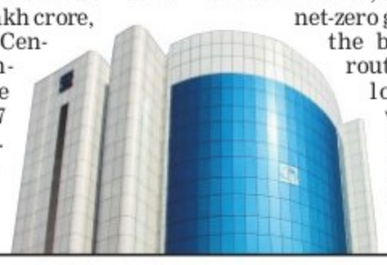
Sebi seeks support to popularise municipal bonds

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ Mumbai

THE Securities and Exchange Board of India (Sebi) has urged pension funds and insurers to support municipal bond issuances to help develop this nascent market.

"I urge pension funds and insurance companies and others to look at increasingly supporting municipal bond issuances," an executive director with the markets watchdog Pramod Rao said at an Assocham-organised corporate bond market summit here on Friday. Municipal bonds are debt instruments like an NCD or any other debt instrument, issued by municipal corporations with the permission of the respective state governments. While municipalities have collectively raised ₹1,940 crore from 12 issues, the total outstanding was only ₹2,184 crore. As against this, the US municipal bonds market is worth $4 trillion.

Also, the total outstanding corporate bonds are worth ₹47.29 lakh crore, while that of Central government bonds are worth ₹100.7 lakh crore. There is no cumulative data available on the outstanding amount of state government bonds.



Rao said bond issuances have exceeded $105 billion in FY25, while equity raising topped $25 billion, underlining the depth of the domestic bond markets.

Rao further said Sebi is eager to partner corporates on sustainable finance, transition and net-zero goals through the bond market route, and is also looking forward to discussions with asset management companies and other financial institutions on the issue. In this regard, the regulator recently introduced the norm of once listed, always listed for corporate bond issuers. To make it easier, the Sebi has made the technology side of it simpler by making distributed ledger technology neutral to bridge the information asymmetry between issuers and debenture trustees in the system who rely on new disclosures and information flow about the status of compliance.

Just like mutual funds, the corporate bonds industry also should take measures to build trust and confidence of retail investors, Rao said.

Sreejesh to be flagbearer at Closing

PR Sreejesh will join Manu Bhaker as the flagbearers of the Indian contingent in the closing ceremony on Sunday. Before homing in on Sreejesh, IOA chief PT Usha spoke with Neeraj Chopra, and she said even the javelin thrower wanted to see the retiring legend as flagbearer.

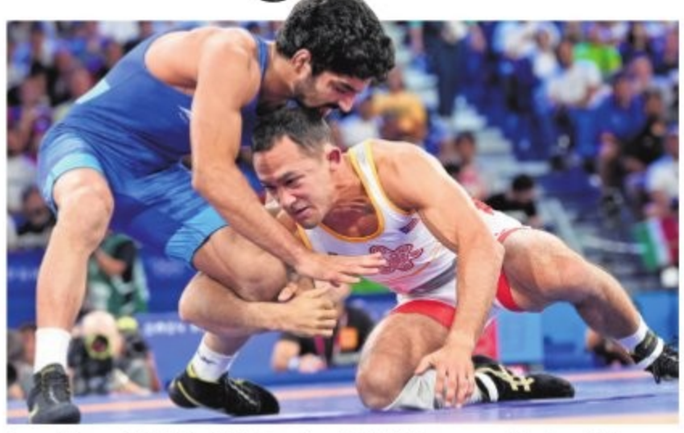
Aman continues wrestling streak with bronze

INDRANEEL DAS @Paris

"I AM dedicating this medal to my parents who don't even know that I am a wrestler," said Aman Sehrawat after winning India's fifth bronze and sixth overall.

The story of Aman is poignant. He battled depression too after he was orphaned at the age of 11. If not for wrestling, he would have been lost in the wasted years of youth resorting to drug abuse. He was born to a very humble family in Jhajjar district of Haryana. Battling mental health issues, his mother took her own life. His father, a tractor mechanic, died a year later. His uncle took care of him and his grandfather introduced him to wrestling. After Vinesh Phogat's heartbreak, there was some cheer in the wrestling camp. At the Champ-de-Mars Arena, Aman was poise and never looked in trouble against Darian Cruz of Puerto Rico. The first period was intense but the Indian wrestler secured 13 points well before the six minutes of toil against Cruz (managed only 5). After Neeraj's silver and the hockey bronze, this has taken India to six, just one short of the Tokyo 2020 medal haul of seven.

Thursday was quite a heavy day for Aman. His first bout against Vladimir Egorov was facile and won on technical superiority. Abakarov Zelimkhan match was supposed to be tricky but Aman won that on technical superiority as well. If not for Higuchi Rei (Rio Games silver medallist and 2022 world championships champion), he would have entered the final.



Aman Sehrawat (L) defeated Darian Cruz 13-5 in the bronze medal play-off | AP

After Vinesh's disqualification for being 100gm overweight, the Indian team was cautious. Aman weighed about 1.5kg more after his bouts on Thursday and the coaches and the support staff went about their rituals to reduce his weight. He had done some treadmill, training routines and skipping until about 4.30 am. "We couldn't sleep the whole night," said Virender Singh Dahiya the national coach. Reducing 1.5kg is routine for a wrestler. But Virender was anxious. He didn't want to take any chance. The national coach said after Vinesh there was too much trepidation in the camp. After sessions of running and skipping until four in the morning, he weighed in well below his weight of 57kg by 7.15 am. They then took some rest before the medal bout in the evening.

There is a bit of luck as well. One wrestler who could have troubled him was Iran's Alireza Sarlak. He was disqualified for being overweight. Aman beat the Tokyo 2020 Olympics silver medallist Ravi Dahiya during the selection trials held to pick the national team for the Olympic qualifiers.

Aman is from the fabled Chhatrasal Akhada, the same place that produced multiple Olympic medallists and world champions. Double Olympic medallists Sushil Kumar is its original product. Yogeshwar Dutt and Ravi Dahiya are the other medallists from the centre. Aman had a bruise on his nose. But that did not matter. Not when he won his first bronze at the Olympics.

Star javelin thrower Neeraj is expected to undergo surgery for the groin injury that has been troubling him since 2017

SILVER LINING DESPITE INJURY

NEERAJ Chopra's consistency is usually up there with death and taxes as one of those few constants in life. But on Thursday, his results sheet read - x 89.45 x x x x. That is not what you would expect from someone who has established a gold standard for clearing distance day after day, month and month, year after year, from someone with 10 consecutive wins (gold or silver) over the last three years.

The world champion and Tokyo gold medallist had one of the most phenomenal seasons after the 2021 Games. He had raised the bar so high that silver at the Olympics - something that would spark frenzied celebrations had it been achieved by any other Indian athlete - seemed like a loss. On Thursday, he was battling multiple enemies - the white foul line, the less-than-comfortable run-up, the demons in his head. Neeraj had also been troubled by a groin injury for some time with this newspaper reporting multiple times about how that niggle had caused him to miss events. The 26-year-old explained his predicament whenever he was forced to pull out. "I don't mind throwing less, honestly. Many competitions, mein sharm sharma mein khel liya, ki organisers ko aisa lagega. (I played out of shame and did not want to disappoint the organisers). I think a lot about this. I would have already made the entry and would think that if I did not go, people would say that I always do that. Personally, I want to play as much as possible. You work hard for it. The plan was made to compete in these many competitions. And when it doesn't happen, I feel very sad. Then you tell your team - chalo ek acha sa message banate hai -- sorry, nahi khel payenge. Khelna bahut badi cheez hai ji, performance is secondary."

Apart from the Doha Diamond League, this year has not been good for Neeraj. He had entered the Golden Spike in Ostrava and had to pull out due to an adductor issue. He was planning to compete in the Paris Diamond League to get acclimated to the conditions but did not do so. He seemed to be saving that fragile adductor for the Olympics. "You can't go beyond what your capacity is, and don't go under it. But if you don't compete and keep withdrawing, how will you get to 100 per cent?" When the 80,000 capacity crowd went delirious after Arshad Nadeem threw the javelin to 92.97m in the second throw, Neeraj was under pressure. He was to throw after fouling his first attempt. He managed to get a legitimate throw that touched 89.45m. He gestured with his hands to himself and his camp to calm down. Neeraj has never crossed 90m. The entire javelin competitors were stunned. "I had full confidence that I would be able to breach Arshad's mark," he said. "Not for once did I think I would not be able to do so." What followed was unlike Neeraj. "I was running too close to the foul line. I was not getting my run-up properly. My block was not working."

India's Neeraj Chopra celebrates his silver medal win on Thursday | PTI

This is something that is not always seen. In a technical event like javelin, it is imperative to have strong legs. The power transitions from the lower body to the upper before throwing. A small niggle in the groin (adductor) like Neeraj's would always play havoc in the mind. "I could focus only 60 per cent on my throws because of the injury," he said, adding that he has not been able to get the right block. He had only one legitimate throw from six. Even he said that it was unusual. "It was because of my hand that I managed to throw this far," he said. "Jor ka jhatka lagaya (one last thrust with the hand)."

The injury has been troubling him since 2017. They had been managing it but this season it has become a worry. That's why Neeraj warms up more than other athletes. He needs to keep that spot warm. He did not want to miss the Olympics and believes that if he had been fit then 90m was a big possibility. "I have been throwing in that 88-89m region for a while and now it should go beyond that," he said. That surgery will happen soon. "I have learnt one thing, that more than skill, it's the mind," he said. The voices cluttered his brain and cast doubts. In high-level competitions like the Olympics, this can be the most dangerous thing.

It's a delight to speak with Neeraj. He is articulate and has a great sense of humour. "All my throws were foul," he said laughing when it was put mildly to him about not throwing legitimate throws. He is nonchalant and not pretentious. Neeraj will now take a break. Probably this could be his last rodeo with long-time coach and German biomechanic specialist Klaus Bartonietz. With quite a few things to take care of, the next few months will be crucial.

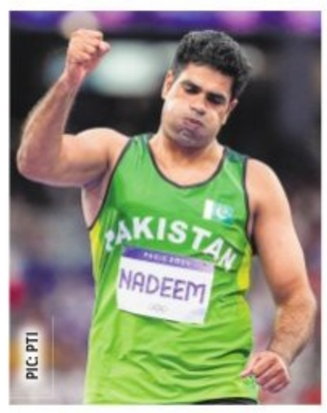
From budding bowler to javelin gold—Arshad story

INDRANEEL DAS @Paris

COORDINATOR for World Athletics was looking for someone to translate Arshad Nadeem's bit at the press conference. He speaks Hindi or Urdu but does not know English, which is understandable. What seemed more bewildering is that the Pakistan contingent did not have a media manager at that time. Finally, a Pakistan journalist doubled up as a translator. If not for javelin, Arshad could have become a pacer. As a child, he had dreamed of becoming a cricketer. Destiny had something else in store for him. No wonder his run-up reminds you of a pacer.

"That's because I was a fast bowler and am comfortable with the run-up and will not want to change," he said. On Thursday, he became Pakistan's first individual Olympic gold-medallist across disciplines.

Freak? Genius? Both rolled into one? There is no plausible answer. He is taunting and teasing the coaching manuals of more orthodox javelin champions. He gingerly runs on the runway, half way from where others start. When other runners use the full Mondo strip before entering the runway, Arshad casually runs from the middle of the track. He just takes a few steps before transition and throws so effortlessly that when the javelin touched way beyond the 85m line the whole stadium was stupefied. As soon as the electronic board flashed 92.97m, there was bedlam.



PIC PTI

The spear kept travelling for eternity. If others believed that the first throw was a fluke, he once again breached the 90m when he crossed 91.79m on his last throw. He eventually finished ahead of Neeraj Chopra who could manage 89.45m with a slightly troublesome groin.

He was born in a mason household in the Punjab province. He is third of eight siblings and started playing as a young boy. First in school then in provincial competition. If one believes that athletes need support system with coaches and a posse of support staff, that too was binned by Arshad. He trains in Lahore and doesn't compete in the European circuit largely due to a paucity of funds, according to the Pakistan journalists.

Just before the Olympics, he spent three weeks in Potchefstroom. He then went back to Pakistan before coming to Paris. Even now he doesn't know what javelin he uses to throw.

Listening to Arshad chronicling his journey was fascinating too. "I played almost all sport," he said. "I used to be a fast bowler and wanted to play cricket. In school, I joined athletics. I used to run 200m, competed in all four throws. One day my coach told me to start javelin." In 2015, he started throwing javelin seriously and competed at the South Asian Games in Guwahati where he recorded a throw of 78.33m to finish on the podium behind Chopra. He got a scholarship from the IAAF High Performance Training Centre (now World Athletics).

There is a streak of innocence, almost childlike, in Arshad's narration too. He says how he had to undergo surgeries on his knees and how it was because of doctor Ali Sher Bajwa in London. He kept thanking him throughout the interaction he had with the media after the medal. After he lamented that he did not have proper javelins to throw, the Pakistan Prime Minister provided him with equipment and a bit of support.

Arshad respects Neeraj and calls him Neeraj bhai more with respect than reverence.

Childhood coach relishes success of new Olympic champion

FIROZ MIRZA @Chennai

AROUND 13 years ago when Rashid Ahmad Saqi saw Arshad Nadeem, he was convinced the tall teenager could become a world beater if groomed properly. In alocal school-level meet at Mian Channu in the Punjab Province of Pakistan, the 14-year-old Arshad was competing in almost all the track and field events but it was his gold medal exploits in javelin throw and shot put that impressed coach Saqi the most.

Arshad might be competing in the athletics competition but his dream then was to become a fast bowler. It all changed that day as Saqi took Arshad under his wings to hone his skills as a javelin thrower. "He was tall with broad shoulders. I knew he could be a world-class javelin thrower, so I started training him," Arshad's childhood coach told this daily.

Saqi, whose father migrated to Pakistan from Gurdaspur after partition in 1947, owns a hotel and restaurant in the city. A sports connoisseur, who played several sports in his youth, Saqi lent a helping hand whenever Arshad, hailing from a modest background, faced financial constraints. "When I started coaching him, the first advice I gave him was to keep character intact. To date, he is abiding by it. He never walks ahead of me whenever we are together, always opens the car doors when I get out of the vehicle and lets me take the seat first before doing so. This is the amount of respect he gives to me. He has got this humility and that's why the almighty has given him that success."

Javelin thrower Arshad Nadeem with his childhood coach Rashid Ahmad Saqi

Nadeem not only shattered the Olympic record with his 92.97m throw on Thursday night but also became the first individual athlete from Pakistan to win a gold medal at the Games. Arshad spoke to his childhood coach before and after the qualification and also dialled him before the finals. "I told him that he would not only qualify but set a record. He then called me today (Friday) morning and congratulated me."

Athletes usually have a chiselled body as it serves their purpose in the best possible manner. Arshad is, however, different. More than a field athlete, he looks more like a burly pacer, which anyway he wanted to become 13 years ago. Saqi says he has been like this since the beginning but refutes the rumour that Arshad's somewhat non-athletic body is due to him being a foodie. "Dal (lentil), chapatis and green vegetables are his favourite. He is a not big fan of chicken. He loves Punjabi lassi." Claiming that Arshad is from the Sukhera Rajput community, the coach said athleticism is in his genes as all his siblings are tall and well-built. Shahid, Arshad's eldest brother, echoed the sentiments

Three-hour hearing in CAS on wrestler Vinesh's challenge

INDRANEEL DAS @ Paris

THE Court of Arbitration (CAS) heard the case of Vinesh Phogat's disqualification case on Friday evening at the ad hoc division set up for the Olympics. According to Vidushpat Singhania, one of the lawyers representing the Indian Olympic Association, the hearing was procedural. He said that it was a three-hour hearing and went off well. Vidushpat and senior advocate Harish Salve are representing the IOA.

"All parties were given a chance to put forth their views," he said. "The argument was led by senior advocate Harish Salve." According to Vidushpat, there were representations from the International Olympic Committee (IOC) and the technical committee of the United World Wrestling. Even Vinesh Phogat also joined the hearing with her lawyers.

The case for reprieve was filed on August 7 at the CAS after Vinesh was disqualified by the UWW for being overweight by just 100gm. The matter has been referred to Dr Annabelle Bennett AC SC (AUS), the sole arbitrator

The CAS has also issued a release before the hearing and said that the applicant has sought annulment of decision. "The Applicant initially sought a decision from the ad hoc Division annulling the Challenged Decision and ordering another weigh-in before the final match as well as a declaration that she be declared eligible and qualified to participate in the final. However, she did not request urgent interim measures.

"The ad hoc Division procedure is fast, but it was not possible for a decision on the merits to be issued within an hour, bearing in mind that the Respondent UWW would have had to be heard first," said the CAS release. "The procedure is, however, ongoing and the Applicant has confirmed that she seeks the annulment of the Challenged Decision and that she requests to be awarded a (shared) silver," CAS said.

IOC head opens up

International Olympic Committee (IOC) president Thomas Bach said he has a "certain understanding" for Phogat, but also wondered where would one draw the line after allowing small concessions in certain situations. "I must say, I have a certain understanding for the wrestler; it's clearly a human touch," said Bach. "Now, it's (appeal) in CAS. We will, at the end, follow the CAS decision. But, again, the international (wrestling) federation, they have to apply their interpretation, their rules. This is their responsibility," he added.

Asked if two silver could be awarded, Bach said, "No, if you ask in such a general way. But allow me to comment on this individual case. Looking at the federation or anybody to take such a decision, when and where do you make the cut? Do you say with 100gms, we give it but with 102 (gms), we don't give it anymore? What do you do then in sports where you have differences of one-thousandths of a second. Do you also then apply such deliberations?"

England appoint Carsley as interim coach

England has delayed hiring a permanent coach to replace Gareth Southgate, and will be led by Lee Carsley, who is currently in charge of the under-21 team, on an interim basis.Carsley's first games as senior team's coach will be against Ireland and Finland in the Nations League in September, the English Football Association said on Friday.

US' Sydney Mclaughlin-Levrone celebrates after setting the new world record in the women's 400m hurdles final | AFP

SYDNEY EXTENDS DOMINANCE

Queen of the 400m hurdles wins final in a time of 50.37 seconds, rival Bol finishes in third

SYDNEY McLaughlin-Levrone is targeting more records after cementing her place as the greatest women's 400m hurdler in history with a jaw-dropping defence of her Olympic crown. The 25-year-old American star electrified the Stade de France on Thursday after storming to victory over rival Femke Bol in a new world record of 50.37sec.

The emphatic nature of the win suggested that McLaughlin-Levrone, who wore a sparkling tiara on her lap of honour, is poised to reign over her event for years to come.

While McLaughlin-Levrone may yet take another crack at mastering the flat 400, as she did in 2023, she also has her sights set on becoming the first woman to duck under 50 seconds. Thursday marked the sixth time McLaughlin-Levrone has bettered the world record since 2021, when she ran 51.90sec to break Dalilah Muhammad's mark of 52.16sec.

McLaughlin-Levrone believes given how rapidly the record has progressed, sub-50 is achievable.

"I think this is an event that wasn't very popular, but we've made it very popular very quickly," she said.

"I do think 49 is possible and I do think the talent sitting in front of you can do that," she added referring to silver medallist Anna Cockrell and the Netherlands' Bol.

"I think we're pushing each other to do that and to get better and improve and find ways to lower times that for so long were thought impossible. I don't know when (sub-50) is possible, but it's out there for sure. "The event's getting faster and faster. There's so much depth in it and I think it always keeps me on my toes. I always want to continue to try to improve and figure out ways to just continue getting better and the race you know, there's so many different ways to run it, so many different stride patterns and all these things."

WORLD RECORD-BREAKING STREAK
51.90 seconds	2021
51.46 seconds	2021 (Olympic final)
51.41 seconds	2022
50.68 seconds	2022 (Worlds final)
50.65 seconds	2024
50.37 seconds	2024 (Olympic final)

McLaughlin-Levrone's rival Bol meanwhile credited the American for redefining the 400m hurdles. "Sydney has really pushed the bar. She was running 50 seconds when I was still running 52. It has really opened your eyes that there's so much more possible. "And once again she's proved in the moment that matters most, an Olympic final, that she can perform so well. We're getting close to 49. It's really amazing to be part of this." McLaughlin-Levrone's dominance of her event is so complete it has even left some wondering whether the rules — specifically the height of the hurdles— need to be changed.

Speaking on Thursday before McLaughlin-Levrone's latest victory, World Athletics chief Sebastian Coe said increasing the height of hurdles could be examined in future. "There's probably a case now for looking at the height of the hurdles because these guys don't really look like they're breaking their form very much to do that," Coe said. "It's just very much a personal view. But I've spoken to a couple of 400 metre hurdlers and they think that actually, it's probably something we might want to look at." AFP

THE visiting Indian cricket team will play a two-day day-night tour match against Australia's Prime Minister's XI between the first two Tests of the five-match Border-Gavaskar Trophy later this year.

India and Australia meet in five-Test series starting in Perth on November 22. It will be first time since the 1991-92 season that the two heavyweights will meet over five Tests in a series.

The Indian team will play a tour-day day-night tour match against the Prime Minister XI at the Manuka Oval in Canberra on November 30 and December 1, Cricket Australia said on their website.

The fixture has been added in the itinerary to help the Indian team prepare for the day-night Test at Adelaide, having played one such game on their previous tour in 2020-21.

'This year's Prime Minister's XI fixture ' which will highlight the strong cricket bonds that stretch back to India's independence in 1947 and celebrate the nations' ever-strengthening economic, cultural and community ties ' also features an historic first,' CA said. 'While it represents the fourth time India have tackled a PM's XI in Australia, the event has not previously been fought out over two days, with the initial 48 fixtures (against touring teams and ATSIC Chairman's XI) dating back to 1951 hosting one-day games,' it added.

Buchi Babu tournament to begin from August 15

The Buchi Babu Memorial tournament, one of the oldest tournaments in the country, will run from August 15 to September 11, at Tirunelveli, Coimbatore, Salem and Natham. The first semifinals will be played at Tirunelveli, second semifinals and final will be played at Natham. Ten State teams have been invited to compete in the prize money tournament from different parts of the country along with two local outfits - TNCA President's XI and TNCA XI. The 12 teams have been divided into four groups of three teams each. The top teams from each group will qualify for the semifinals.

The tournament is conducted on the Ranji format (4 days) which would be a preparation for the teams for the season.

PLANTING MANGROVES CAN'T COMPENSATE FOR UNDISTURBED MANGROVE FORESTS

S V KRISHNA CHAITANYA @Chennai

THE ability of mangroves to store carbon has long been recognised, but little was known about whether planted mangroves can store carbon as efficiently as the naturally established stands and in which time frame. However, this has been decoded by US-based researchers. It was found that planted mangroves can store up to 70% of carbon stock as compared to that found in intact stands after only 20 years. It emphasises the fact that the planted mangroves can't replace or compensate for the ecological services delivered by an undisturbed mangrove forest.

This insight could significantly influence global efforts to restore and conserve mangroves, especially in the light of the alarming decline in these vital ecosystems over the past five decades. These coastal forests, found in tropical and subtropical regions, play a crucial role in mitigating climate change by sequestering large amounts of carbon in their biomass and the surrounding soil. Their ability to trap carbon is essential in the fight against global warming, as it helps offset carbon emissions and stabilise atmospheric carbon dioxide levels. The new study was spearheaded by Carine Bourgeois from the Forest Service's International Programs office. Bourgeois and her team assembled an international group of mangrove researchers, including Rich MacKenzie and Sahadev Sharma, to lend their expertise. The team utilised logistic models developed from 40 years of data, which included nearly 700 planted mangrove stands worldwide, to measure carbon stock levels over time.

"About 10 years ago, Sahadev Sharma, then with the Institute of Pacific Islands Forestry, and I discovered that 20-year-old mangrove plantations in Cambodia had carbon stocks comparable to those of intact forests," said MacKenzie, a scientist at the Institute of Pacific Islands Forestry. "This observation sparked our interest in investigating how widespread this phenomenon was and whether it could be a viable strategy for global mangrove restoration." The team's findings were remarkable: after just 20 years, planted mangroves had achieved 71-73% of the carbon stock found in intact stands. This rapid accumulation of carbon highlights the potential for planted mangroves to serve as an effective tool in climate change mitigation, particularly in regions where mangroves have been lost due to deforestation, coastal development or natural disasters. It is estimated that along with historical losses, human-driven land use change, extreme weather events, and erosion wiped out 35% of the global mangrove area over the past five decades.

Part of their research work also involves monitoring mangroves to see how they're faring. "Periodic and regular monitoring of mangroves can provide useful data on survival and success of restoration efforts and can help devise adaptive management strategies as and when needed," Rupesh Bhomia from the Center for International Forestry Research and World Agroforestry (CIFOR-ICRAF), stated.

But MacKenzie warns that mangrove plantations are not always a solution for restoring the trees. "Properly planned and implemented mangrove plantations are more effective at restoring carbon stocks than are degraded stands. However, this does not mean that mangrove plantations are always the best restoration method," MacKenzie stated.

Planting mangroves is not a replacement, nor does it compensate for conserving intact stands, the researchers emphasised.

"Our models indicate that replanting in all highly restorable mangrove areas would absorb less than one percent of annual global emissions over 20 years. That's why conserving existing mangrove stands is paramount," Bourgeois emphasised.

Meanwhile, the International Union for Conservation of Nature (IUCN) has released the first global mangrove assessment, according to which more than half of all mangrove ecosystems are at risk of collapse by 2050. It says nearly 20% (19.6%) of the assessed mangroves are at high risk, classed as either Endangered or Critically Endangered, including that of South India, reflecting these areas are at severe risk of collapse.

The global assessment also claims that in the absence of additional conservation efforts, by 2050, about 7,065 sq km (-5%) more mangroves will be lost and 23,672 sq km (-16%) will be submerged.

The study classified mangrove ecosystems in 36 different regions and assessed the threats and risk of collapse in each region. The work led by IUCN had active involvement of more than 250 experts based in 44 countries.

As breakdancing makes its debut at the Olympics, city dancers reflect on the sport's growth and the challenges of gaining recognition and support in India

The Breaking Moment

POOJA DAS

ON Friday, Google Search featured the Paris 2024 Olympic mascot performing a spectacular headspin, celebrating the introduction of breakdancing – known as breaking—into the Olympic Games. With the sport's debut on August 9, this moment holds special significance for the burgeoning breaking community in the city. The two-day event will showcase 32 B-boys and B-girls from around the world, competing in a rigorous format that includes preliminary rounds, quarter-finals, semi-finals, and medal battles.

Shawn Mendes, a full-time breakdancer in the city, expresses his excitement about the sport's inclusion in the Olympics. "It's incredible. When I started in 2010, there were very few competitions. Now, events are happening back-to-back, and breaking is reaching an audience beyond just the dance community," says Mendes, who first fell in love with breaking a decade ago through YouTube videos. He hopes that the sport's global debut will lead to increased sponsorship and support. "Seeing it in the Olympics is a big deal, and I'm hopeful it will bring better infrastructure and more opportunities for dancers in India," he says adding that while many may view breaking merely as a dance form, it is no less than a sport, given the hours of training and conditioning required. "Breakdancing consists of four elements – toprock, downrock, power moves, and freezes – each demanding extensive training. The challenge lies in combining all four elements seamlessly," he explains.

Though no athlete from India will participate in breaking at the Paris Olympics, most athlete-dancers emphasise that merely reaching the Olympic Qualifier Series (OQS) – a series of competitions required to score points for Olympic qualification – was a significant challenge. Akash Sheelavant, a breaking coach and athlete, highlights the substantial lack of recognition and support for breaking in India. "People don't really see breaking as a sport. When we wanted to host a national-level event in the city, we were asked if dance could really be called a 'sport'. Breaking debuting in the Olympics could change these perceptions and encourage more support and recognition," he adds.

Sushma Aithal, also known as Bgirl Sushma, who represented India in three World Series Qualifiers, notes that most athletes fund their journeys to the qualifiers themselves. "Breaking has only recently been added as an Olympic sport, so the Federation is very new, and there was no funding for us. After winning nationals, I had to self-fund my trips to qualifiers in Japan, Brazil, and Hong Kong. It cost more than ₹10 lakh," says Aithal, who has been breaking for seven years. "By the time I reached Hong Kong, I already knew I wouldn't make it to the Olympics, but my love for this art compelled me to go." The road to the Olympics was equally challenging for athlete Suryadharshan, known as Crazy Br8. "I had to take out a loan for my trip to Brazil," he recalls.

Reflecting on the dynamics of the two federations – the Breakdance Federation of India (BDFI) and the All India DanceSport Federation (AIDSF), which is responsible for sending athletes to the Olympics, Sheelavant says, "I don't know what the future holds for this sport. The only thing I know is that breaking is not just a sport for me; it's also an art form. When we started, there was no one to uplift us, which is why I want to bring more quality into breaking and foster an international mindset in the students I'm coaching."

An installation at Vidhana Soudha honoured Karnataka's rich handloom heritage and offered a glimpse into the promising future of traditional textiles

S VIDYA

THE handloom textiles, woven with intricate patterns, tell timeless stories of tradition and craftsmanship. On National Handloom Day (Aug 7), a handloom installation at Vidhana Soudha paid tribute to the state's textile heritage, celebrating both its history and its future.

Organised by the Ficci Ladies Organisation (FLO Bangalore Chapter), a division of the Federation of Indian Chambers of Commerce and Industry (FICCI), the display, led by former chairpoerson Revathi Raju, showcased Karnataka's iconic weaves, highlighting the state's diverse textile traditions, including ilkal, patteda anchu, Hubballi sarees, Udupi sarees, kasuti, and Lambani embroidery.

Preeth Khona, a textile revivalist, emphasises the importance of blending tradition with innovation, stating, "Our artisans are not merely preserving age-old techniques; they are also innovating and adapting to contemporary tastes while maintaining the integrity of their craft. Handloom today stands at the crossroads of heritage and innovation, offering timeless beauty with a modern twist. This synergy is key to keeping our rich textile traditions alive and relevant in the ever-evolving world of fashion."

Priyanka Abhishek, co-founder of Sustainable Fashion Week Hub India, spoke of the need for greater education and promotion of handloom textiles, particularly among young people. "With modern influences, today's trends change rapidly, and there's a tendency to discard styles quickly. However, sarees are classic, timeless pieces that suit every season and everyone. I do see many young people gravitating towards traditional clothing," she shares.

Leela, a visitor, echoed these sentiments, advocating for a shift in how saris are perceived and marketed. "We have a wealth of local talent eager to contribute," she says, noting the need for a rejuvenation in the industry. "My 26-year-old daughter loves wearing sarees, so we need to make them appealing to young people. We should present sarees in a chic way, highlighting their diversity and beauty."

The installation was inaugurated by Karnataka Handloom Minister Shivanand Patil, with notable guests including Council Chairman Basavaraj Horatti, and Chief Secretary Shalini Rajneesh.

BHARADVAJASANA I

(TORSO STRETCH POSE I)

This is a variation of the foundational yoga pose, Bharadvajasana (Torso Stretch Pose), which is named to pay homage to the sage, Bharadvaja. He is believed to have been one of the seven great sages (Saptarishis) in Hindu tradition and is associated with wisdom, knowledge, and spiritual insight. In this pose, the legs are bent and folded to one side, keeping the knees together. It helps lengthen the spine and root the sit bones, allowing for a smooth flow of energy from the base of the spine to the crown of the head. It also helps ease lower back and tailbone pain, carpal tunnel syndrome, any tension from the hips and lower back, or neck and shoulder pain.

STEPS

- Sit with your legs stretched in front of you in Dandasana. Lengthen your spine.
- Twist to your right, inhale, bend your knees and bring your feet to the left. Keep the feet close to your hip. Sit on the ground. Exhale.
- Inhale, grab your left arm with your right hand kept behind.
- On exhalation, twist the upper body and tuck your left hand under the right knee with the palm facing down. Keep your left hand straight.
- Keep your core engaged to support your lower back.
- Continue lengthening your spine and twisting your upper body and shoulders.
- Inhale, release the hands, and return to Dandasana. Remain here for a breath or two.
- Counter the stretch on the other side (left), following the instructions above.
- Release and return to Dandasana.
- Relax in Staff Pose Hands Back Knees Bent.

BENEFITS

MARINATING in one place seemed to take the zestfulness of travel out of my system. I prided myself on being a free bird who could spread her wings (figuratively speaking, of course) and fly anywhere I wanted. I was partial to a couple of countries like Italy, and I would find any excuse to return. My passport boasted of a myriad of visas and the thought of travelling excited and invigorated me. Often I would take off on my own, only with my BFFs in tow, and have a blast. I remember doing a Mediterranean cruise with a boatload of women and we became the talk of the cruise-ship! The ladies had come prepared with Bollywood pen-drives and some even gave the chef a couple of Indian recipes to follow. Every morning we would excitedly look out of out portholes (huge windows) to see a new city. Mykonos, Santorini, Athens...life couldn't get better! But (a 'but' is like a drop of wee-wee that spoils a whole bowl of soup), the advent of Covid did a number on me. Surely and very insidiously it made me afraid to step out of my comfort zone. Now I am not ashamed to admit that I have 'travel-anxiety'! A lot of my older friends too, seem to experience this new phenomenon. At the airport I see older people with a sheaf of documents looking harassed while the young-uns have it handy on their phones. Going through security is a nightmare with impatient younger flyers pushing and shoving their way to the gate. I saw an older couple trying hard to use digi-yatra. Somewhere, 'time' has stopped for some of us. It's like we have opened a portal into the twilight zone. Too old to master Artifical Intelligence but too young to die...sigh!

Danny Sura & Lillete Dubey

I had to give myself a lot of pep-talks to motivate myself to start taking baby steps into exploring the world again. This has been a 'mini-break' kind of year and I'm making tentative forays by travelling outside of my comfort zone. It's like re-learning to swim. Never forgetting, but not being as proficient.

When a dear friend floated the idea of going on a small all girls vacay to Uzbekistan, I was all in. As women, we are uncomplicated creatures as much as the 'other-species' would like to think we aren't and make unkind memes about our 'wavering-mind' syndrome. Promptly, the six of us met up at the erstwhile Bangalore Club, decided on an itinerary made out by a friend who lives there, and next month, off we go on a much needed vacation. No husbands, no children, just the wind in our hair and a skip in our steps.

I have always wondered why the theatre scene here isn't as vibrant as in Mumbai. We have the talent, the verve and that certain 'je ne sais quoi' that is the mainstay of every performing artist. Yet we lack in performing spaces and sponsors. We watch helplessly as major productions come to our city and show us how it's done. The effervescent theatre patron, Usha Subramanium brought down Lillete Dubey's musical magnum opus Jaya from Mumbai. Needless to say, we all sat spellbound in the audience as we watched the magnificence of the Mahabharata unfold before our eyes.

Next time Usha, it's nammaooru's turn to be showcased.

AN UNCOMPROMISING LOOK AT BENGALURU'S DARK UNDERBELLY

BHEEMA
Director: Vijay Kumar
Cast: Vijay Kumar, Ashwini Ambarish,, Priya Shatamarshan, Dragon Manju, Achyuth Kumar, Gopal Krishna Deshpande, and Shuddhi

A SHARADHAA

BENGALURU, often lauded as a garden city and an IT hub with a vibrant pub scene, has another side that isn't always in the spotlight: the dark realities of drugs and slums. Vijay Kumar, known for his gritty approach in his directorial debut Salaga, follows a similar pattern with his latest film Bheema, offering a raw and unflinching look into the hidden realities of the city's shantytowns.

The film's raw style of direction combined with Charan Raj's intense soundtrack contribute to a powerful and visceral experience. Shiv Sena's cinematography, with aerial shots, vividly depicts the unfiltered violence and bloodshed with such rawness that it feels as if the screen is splattered with crimson, hitting you right in the face. Engaging Kannada rap songs by MC Bijju and Rahul Ditto also add to the intensity, while Maasthi's hard-hitting dialogues further enhance the film's impact.

In Bheema, a striking dialogue compares teenage kids to matchsticks. This metaphor sets the stage for the film, which explains the harsh conditions of a struggling neighbourhood where illegal activities among youngsters reveal the difficult circumstances they face.

The story introduces us to Ramanna (Achyuth Kumar), whose world collapses when his son succumbs to the relentless threat of drug trafficking. Under Ramanna's roof, Bheema (Vijay Kumar), an orphan working in his mechanic shop, grows up to become a fervent anti-drug crusader. As Bheema evolves into a fearless leader, he takes on the drug trade's formidable kingpin, Dragon Manju, to eradicate addiction from his community.

The film explores how marijuana seeps into the city, illustrating its extensive reach as it uncovers the exploitation of slum families and youth coerced into producing and distributing drugs. Through a series of intense and revealing scenes, Bheema offers an uncompromising look at this illicit trade and its devastating impact on communities, including both affluent and impoverished urban youth. The striking slum scenes and intense depiction of local gangsters amplify the harsh realities faced by these individuals, with real-life anecdotes from Bengaluru adding authenticity to the narrative.

Priya Shatamarshan plays Girija, a no-nonsense police officer who takes charge with relentless determination to curb rampant rowdyism and drug trafficking. Her character is a force of nature, unafraid to confront local thugs head-on and fiercely dedicated to upholding the law. Girija's proactive stance and willingness to battle both Bheema and the notorious drug dealer, Dragon Manju, showcase her as a pivotal figure in restoring order.

Bheema highlights the widespread issue of drug abuse and its effects on various social classes, urging the need for solutions. Vijay Kumar's bold portrayal as director and actor offers a fresh, eye-opening view of a city concealing its darkest issues beneath a facade of prosperity. The film culminates in a dramatic revenge conflict between Dragon Manju and Bheema, showcasing Bheema as both a victor and a loser.

Bheema features intense and unsettling scenes that are hard to watch. The depiction of drug consumption and brutal violence, along with crude language, justifies its 'A' rating. It does not shy away from showing the harsh realities of lower-middle-class life and the cycle of crime and addiction. The dialogue is marked by vulgar exchanges, and the film portrays gender bias and excessive bloodshed.

The film has its flaws, though. While Bheema provides a realistic portrayal and informative content, it falls short in narrative depth and cohesion. Its narrative is sometimes muddled, such as in a reckless bike-wheeling scene that leads to a tragic accident, followed by confusing flashbacks and inconsistencies in rehabilitation outcomes. Despite knowing the drug suppliers, the protagonist only confronts them at the end, leading to confusion about whether the story is about fighting drug abuse or seeking personal revenge.

In Bheema, Vijay Kumar's portrayal of the titular character is compared to his namesake from the Mahabharata for the valour he shows in defending his community despite the severe risks that come with it. His dedication shines as he overcomes dangers and becomes a noble protector in the process.

Baby Amma, Bheema's mother, played by Kalyanee, provides emotional support, highlighting the strong bond between them. Ashwini Ambarish, though limited in screen time, stands as Bheema's steadfast supporter, representing loyalty and solidarity.

In stark contrast, Dragon Manju comes across as the menacing antagonist. His gigantic personality in the criminal empire, alongside enforcers like Jayasurya and Cockroach Sudhi—a privileged son caught in the web of crime—adds depth to the film's dark side. Ramesh Indira's role as an MLA contributes to certain political dynamics, involving a cameo by Rangyana Raghu as someone running a de-addiction centre. Raghu Shivammogga plays a police officer who undergoes a notable shift from corruption to integrity. Gopal Krishna Deshpande adds emotional depth to the story, and Priya Shatamarshan shines as Inspector Girija. Her portrayal as a fearless and resolute law enforcer stands out, showcasing strength and resilience.

As Bheema reaches its climax, the film's raw and unrelenting violence brings the protagonist's journey to a critical juncture. Bheema, who has taken the law into his own hands, faces the inevitable consequences of his actions as the police apprehend him. This dramatic turn highlights the personal cost of his vigilante actions and opens the door to new possibilities.

The film serves as a reminder that overcoming adversity often involves more than intelligence—it requires a generous heart.

The release date of Rishab Shetty's upcoming production venture Laughing Buddha has been changed. The film will release on August 30, a week after the originally planned date

Laughing Buddha gets a new release date

DIRECTED by Bharath Raj, Laughing Buddha draws inspiration from a real incident in Himachal Pradesh and stars Pramod Shetty in his debut lead role. The film explores the life of a police constable, played by Pramod, and stars Diganth Manchale in a pivotal role. The film delves into the personal struggles of a police head constable named Govardhan and the transformative power of a song on the lives of three individuals. The song was launched recently and attended by SK Umesh, K Kalyan, and Teju Belawadi. The trailer is set to drop on August 15.

Pramod Shetty shared his enthusiasm for his lead role, recounting how Rishab and Bharath approached him with the offer. "Rishab told me, 'I'm not investing in you but in the story,'" Pramod said. He also noted the challenges of preparing for the role, including significant weight changes during the lockdown.

Rishab chimes in for better content

At the song launch event, Rishab Shetty discussed the evolving film industry, underscoring how alternative platforms offer some benefits to producers but have also reduced the exclusivity of cinema. "Today's cinema world offers many options beyond theatres—channels, OTT platforms, and more. Movies are shown in theatres for a short period before moving to TV and streaming services," he explained.

He also pointed out the growing gap between the number of filmmakers and the shrinking audience, along with the rise of content creators. "Nowadays, everyone is a creator. Even a couple at home can shoot, edit, and post content that attracts millions of views. They are busier than us," he noted.

To draw audiences back to theatres, Shetty mentioned the need for compelling content. "If you create a great experience, people will return. Complaining about low attendance won't solve the issue. People now have countless choices. Just check your daily phone usage—many of us spend hours on mobile devices. People are absorbed in their phones," said Rishab, who is hopeful that upcoming films like Vijay Kumar's Bheema, Golden Star Ganesh's Krishnam Pranaya Sakhi, and Diganth's Powder, among others, will attract people back to the theatres.

KARTHIK Gowda, the producer of Powder, candidly addressed the multiple postponements of the film's release date. The film was originally slated for an August 15 release, but it has been pushed to August 23. Acknowledging the decisions behind these delays, Karthik, at the trailer launch of the film, elaborated, "We have postponed the release of Powder three times now. Initially, it was due to scheduling conflicts and logistical challenges that needed to be ironed out to ensure a seamless theatrical experience." Karthik further clarified, "The primary reason for the latest postponement revolves around strategic considerations. With two highly anticipated Kannada films also set to hit theatres on the 15th, we felt it prudent to avoid direct competition. Our aim is to secure optimal screening slots and ensure that Powder receives the attention and audience it deserves."

Expressing his optimism about the film's prospects, Karthik encouraged the audience not to wait for its eventual OTT release but instead to seize the opportunity to enjoy the immersive cinematic experience in theaters. "We want viewers to indulge in the full spectrum of emotions and entertainment that Powder offers on the big screen," he said.

Powder, directed by Janardhan Chikkanna of Gultoo fame, is the fourth production from KRG Studios. This project sees a collaboration between KRG Studios and the popular Mumbai-based banner The Viral Fever (TVF). The film is produced by Arunabh Kumar of TVF and KRG Studios' Karthik Gowda, Yogi G Raj, and Vijay Subramaniam. The trailer for the film was recently launched ahead of its scheduled release on August 23.

Based on a story by Deepak Venkateshan, the trailer suggests that Powder is an uproarious comedy revolving around a group of young friends who concoct a wild scheme to get rich quick. Their scheme centres on a stash of narcotics ingeniously hidden in talcum powder tins, setting the stage for a series of comedic misadventures.

Powder features an impressive ensemble cast, including Diganth, Dhanya Ramkumar, Sharmiela Mandre, Aniruddh Acharya, Rangayana Raghu, Ravishankar Gowda, Nagabhushan Bharath GB, and Gopal Krishna Deshpande, among others.

Rangayana Raghu, known for his roles in recent films like Shakahari and Tagaru Palya, exudes confidence in the content of Powder. He voiced his concern about audiences not patronising theatres and earnestly appealed to everyone not to opt for mobile viewing. According to him, Powder is a delightful film meant to be experienced on the big screen, where its humour and charm can truly shine.

While director Janardhan Chikkanna revealed how he came to direct Powder, Diganth expressed his excitement about collaborating with him, mentioning that he had admired Chikkanna's debut film, Gultoo. Diganth also echoed the sentiment about audiences not coming to theatres, stating, "The film is meant for the big screen, so please don't watch it on your phone. Come to the cinema and enjoy the experience."

Dhanya Ramkumar mentioned that she received a significant career boost with Powder. Sharmiela Mandre, who takes on a unique role with action-packed scenes in the film, shared, "I've never played such a role in my career before. When I heard the story, I immediately agreed to be a part of it."
